1,000 DELEGATES AT LEGION MEET

Second Annual Convention Opens
At Cleveland

REPORTS ON FOR TODAY

20,000 Are to Be in Parade This Afternoon

CLEVELAND. — (By Associated Press.)—More than 1,000 delegates were in their seats in the Hippodrome theater Monday morning when Franklin D'Olier, national commander, called to order the second annual convention of the American Legion, approaching in importance the national sessions of the big political parties. The floor of the theater resembles one of the big political conventions, with standards and pennants designating seats allotted to the various delegations.

Commander D'Olier presented Rev. Francis J. Kelly of Troy, N. Y., "the Fighting Chaplain," who delivered the invocation. Following the national chaplain, Mayor William S. Fitzgerald welcomed the Fighting Chaplain, who delivered the invocation. Following the national chaplain, Mayor William S. Fitzgerald welcomed the visitors and delegates in behalf of the city.

Then, in order came the report of the national commander, the report of the executive committee on the convention program, naming of the convention committees, announcement of the time and place of meeting of those committees and the reports of the national adjutant and the national treasurer.

The convention adjourned at noon to witness the parade this afternoon of approximately 20,000 former service men and women, the feature of the three days convention.

One of the first important matters to be presented before the convention after the preliminaries, was a report of the 30-centual committee. The committee was in session early to decide two questions which, after protracted debate, failed to find a solution at a meeting of the executive committee Sunday night.

These are: Shall each department be allowed only one delegate at large and one national delegate for each even 1,000 paid-up members, shall it be allowed one additional delegate for each $1,000 paid-up members or major fraction thereof? Shall the posts in foreign countries be allowed votes in the convention?

VOTING STRENGTH 1,000

The credentials committee comprises one member from each recognized department represented at the convention, including all states the District of Columbia, Alaska and Hawaii.

Whether an additional delegate would be seated by states having a major fraction of 1,000 paid-up members affected 23 votes.

The question of the seating of delegates or their proxies from foreign countries or outlying territorial possessions of the United States involved 50 votes.

Pending decision of these two questions the voting strength at the convention ranged between 1,017 and 1156.

Legion organizations in Mexico, Panama, Philippine islands, Porto Rico, Argentina, Belgium, Bitten Isles, Canada, Chile, China, Cuba, France, Guatemala, Japan, Poland, Samoa and Santo Domingo were involved.

The executive committee decided last night that representation in the convention should be on the basis of paid-up national dues. August 28 last which on that date totaled $18,569. There was strong objection to this ruling by many states, particularly New Jersey, where it was said the membership had been increased by eleven hundred efforts from 22,000 to 33,000. National dues for more than 1,000,000 have been received and it was said, 2,000,000 MEMBERS.

R. C. Creviston, director of organization for the legion, said more than 2,000,000 men have joined the legion. He explained the disparity between that figure and the number of national dues received represent delinquents and unacknowledged payments of national dues.

How the case of the ex-service men and particularly the disabled has been championed in Washington during the past 10 months, was shown by the report of John Thomas Taylor, chairman of the national legislative committee.

The legislative committee accomplished its mission by the case of the provisions made for the war's disabled.

The sixty-fifth congress appropriated approximately $150,000,000 for the disabled. Since the establishment of the legislative committee in Washington the sixty-sixth congress appropriated $358,545,000.

WORLD'S SERIES TO OPEN OCTOBER 5

First of Baseball Championship Games to be Played in American League City—Program Arranged at National Commission Meeting

CHICAGO.—(By Associated Press.)—The American League won the toss at the meeting of the national commission Monday and the first world series game will be played October 5, in the American League city winning the pennant.

The first three games will be played in the same city, October 5, 6 and 7. On October 8, the teams will travel and on the ninth will open a four game series in the National League city. On October 13, they will travel again to play in the American League city on October 14. If a ninth game is necessary it will be played in the National League city on October 15.

The national commission also decided that if the American League race results in a tie between Chicago and Cleveland, a three game series will be necessary to decide the winner. In that event the first game will be played in Cleveland, the second in Chicago and the third on neutral ground.

ROAD MEN MEET

Federal Highway Council Convenes at Akron

AKRON.—(By Associated Press.)—The Federal Highway council convened in Akron Monday morning for a two day session to discuss a national program for highway taxation. Approximately 75 delegates have registered at the headquarters for the convention.

P. A. Polak, president of the Chamber of Commerce welcomed the delegates to the city at the first session held at the City club. S. M. Williams, chairman of the council, spoke briefly for the council.

The committee adjourned to their rooms at 11 o'clock for a discussion of details of the program. Monday night the delegates will be guests of honor at a dinner at the Portage-co club.

The program to be discussed by the council is contained in the Townsend bill now before congress providing for a system of national highways across the continent from east to west and north to south to which the states states connect their "improved highways."

The committee on sub-grants headed by General Coleman DuPont, will make one of the most important reports of the session.

CANAL BOOSTERS MEET

TOLEDO.—Ohio boosters of the Maumee-Erie canal to connect Lake Erie with the Ohio river, gathered Monday for presentation of arguments. A board of army engineers is hearing the case.

GALA TOUR LAID OUT FOR COX

Governor Takes His Campaign
Thru Nebraska Today

HAS STRENUOUS PROGRAM

Ends Western "Swing" at Kansas City Next Saturday

NORTH PLATTE, Neb.—(By Associated Press.)—The league of nations and agricultural problems were prominent topics of Governor Cox, Democratic presidential candidate, for his Nebraska campaign which opened early Monday at North Platte and comprised seven rear platform and two extended speeches, the latter Monday afternoon at Lincoln and Monday night in the Auditorium at Omaha.

Across the entire state, including brief state talks at Lexington, Kearney, Grand Island, Aurora, York and Seward, the governor, leaving Cheyenne, Wyo., early Monday morning, had one of the most strenuous programs of his western trip, the last week of which began Monday.

GALA TOUR PLANNED
Nebraska Democrats laid out a gala tour for the candidate thru the home state of William J. Bryan and Senator Hitchcock, administration leader in the treaty fight. W. H. Thompson of Grand Island, Nebraska's national committeeman, and others arranged to meet the governor's train at Kearney.

Governor Cox brought information to Nebraska agriculturists regarding material as well as moral interests of farmers and livestock growers in the league. The governor's matter included reports of declining exports of agricultural products which the governor assigned to lack of transportation, falling exchange and unsettled conditions at home and abroad with the league presented as a stabilizing remedy for volume and prices.

After his Omaha speech Monday night, the governor will tour South Dakota Tuesday, visit Sioux Falls, S. D., St. Joseph, Mo., Atchison and Topeka, Kansas on Wednesday, spend Thursday in other Kansas cities; Friday in Oklahoma, and end his western "swing" Saturday at Kansas City.

Returning to Dayton next Sunday, the candidate expects to take two days rest and leave Wednesday on another trip, probably to Kentucky and Tennessee.

COX'S PROGRAM GIVEN

NEW YORK.—(By United Press.)—Partial itinerary of Governor Cox's midwestern tour was announced Monday at Democratic headquarters as follows:

October 7, Elizabethtown and Bowling Green, Ky., and Nashville, Tenn.

October 8, Paducah and Louisville, Ky.

October 9, Rear platform speeches southern Indiana.

October 10, Terre Haute, Ind.

October 11, Springfield, and East St. Louis, Ill., and St. Louis, Mo.

October 12, Peoria, Ill., and Springfield, Ill.

October 13, Peru, Wash., Huntington and Fort Wayne, Ind.

October 14, Northwestern Ohio and Springfield, Ohio October 15, northern Ohio and Toledo, Ohio.

October 16, Akron (afternoon), and Cleveland (night).

Before departing on his tour Governor Cox will receive a delegation of traveling men at Columbus, on the morning of October 6. Next Sunday while returning from his western trip, Cox will have a conference with Franklin D. Roosevelt on his private car between Terre Haute and Indianapolis.

AIR RACERS LAND

One Balloon in Contest Comes Down Near Van Wert

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—(By Associated Press.)—Five of the 11 balloons which started from here Saturday afternoon in the national elimination contest, had landed early Monday, according to reports received by the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce.

Army balloon No. 4, piloted by Lieutenant E. W. McIntyre with Captain Dale Mayberry as aide, descended one mile south of Louisville, Ky., the "Missouri," piloted by Bernard Von Hoffman of the University of Missouri landed eight miles west of Caneyville, Ky.; Balloon No. 1, R. F. Donaldson pilot, and E. King aide, came down near Owensboro, Ky.; the "Ohio" in charge of Warren Raab, reported landed at Grayville, Ind., 30 miles northeast of Evansville, and balloon No. 5 came down three miles northwest of Van Wert, Ohio, Monday morning after traveling a distance of more than 500 miles in 36 hours and 46 minutes. The balloons left here equipped for a two days flight.

POLICE SCOUR CHICAGO FOR MULTI-MILLIONAIRE

CHICAGO.—Police Monday were making a city-wide search for Amoske J. Small, Canadian theatrical magnate, and multi-millionaire. Small disappeared from Toronto December 3, last year. Neither he nor his secretary, John Douglas, have been seen since.

Small had $100,000 in Canadian war bonds in his possession when he vanished.

BARN BURNING CONFESSED BY OHIO YOUNG MAN

COLUMBUS.—State Fire Marshal Leonard was notified Monday that Russell Harrison, aged 19, of Fredericktown, near Mount Vernon, had confessed that he had burned the barn of William J. Gieger, September 29. Two are held in Mount Vernon on a charge of automobile stealing. The arson charge will also be filed.

104 MEMBERS IN C. OF C. DRIVE

Great Enthusiasm Shown by Workers and Director Reed Is Highly Praised—Manufacturers Will Meet Tonight on Memberships

The first half day's work in the Chamber of Commerce expansion drive resulted in a total of 104 new members, reported at the first noonday luncheon, held in the basement dining room of the Elks' club.

The army division, under the leadership of General Ed. Gordon won first honors, reporting 68 new members, while the navy division turned in 36. Individual honors were carried off by Captain Francis O'Connor's navy team with 13 members and Captain John Williams' army team with 12.

In commenting on the first day's work Congressman Daniel A. Reed, who is conducting the drive declared the workers were out earlier than in any city in which he has conducted a campaign in the past.

WORKERS WILL PAY
He explained that all captains will pay for their own luncheons during the week as a means of conserving the funds of the chamber for other work. He declared that the use of Chamber of Commerce funds for paying for luncheons of workers might cause unfavorable comment among members and prospective members.

Reed declared those who have been called upon to work in the campaign should consider themselves greatly honored. "Get it out of the mind of the community that men should be paid for civic service," he told the workers. "Every man who works faithfully thru the present campaign will be a larger and a better man in every way for having gone out and promoting the new spirit, thereby underwriting the future of Lima," he said.

Congressman Reed declared the spirit of the workers Monday morning was excellent. He said that despite a downpour of rain at the time they were expected to report, they were all on time, and General Ed. Gordon, with his army division went forth to battle at 9:20. The navy division steamed out of port under the leadership of Admiral Wallace King ten minutes later.

MANUFACTURERS TO MEET
A committee in charge of a special list of organizations expected to take plural memberships was on the job a few minutes later, he said. A meeting of the Manufacturers Association has been called for 6:30 Monday evening at the Lima club, for the purpose of discussing the action to take in regard to plural memberships.

Reed announced as the principal speaker at Tuesday's luncheon, Prosecuting Attorney Roy E. Brownell, of Genesee-co, Michigan. Brownell is also vice president of the Flint Board of Commerce, and according to Reed, a most forceful and convincing speaker. Brownell will point out to the workers here some of the accomplishments of the Flint board of Commerce. He will bring with him Fred Elliot, a prominent business man of Flint, who will speak.

With only the surface of the list of near 3,000 prospects touched in the war, Monday morning, Reed declared the membership should easily be 1,200 by Friday night.

CLOCKS SET BACK

Ohio Cities Begin to Change to Central Time

COLUMBUS.—(By Associated Press.)—Most Ohio municipalities which took up daylight savings last spring, either already have set their time back or will do so this week. Cincinnati, late in October, will be the last large city to return to regular central standard time. October 1, is the date upon which most of the smaller cities which have not already done so are to turn back clocks. October 1, will mark the change of time in Toledo, while Columbus is slated for central time again next Sunday.

Cleveland and other eastern and northeastern Ohio points which normally operate on eastern time did not adopt the daylight savings plan. As was the case last winter, half of Ohio will again operate on eastern and half on central time.

'FAKE' DRINK SOLD

Beverage Warning Issued by Washington Officials

WASHINGTON.—Warning against "fake" fruit beverages which have flooded the soft drink market since the advent of prohibition, was issued Monday by the public health service. Many of the orange beverages now being sold, it was said, consist only of sweetened carbonated water, flavored with a little oil from the peel of oranges and artificially colored.

The department of agriculture has ruled that provisions of the pure food act will be held to have been violated in case such drinks are sold under trade name which lead the purchaser to believe they contain the edible portion of juice of the fruit named.

PEACH CROP LARGEST EVER.

KELLEY'S ISLAND.—One of the largest peach crops ever grown on the island is being harvested this season. Steamers are making special trips to the island hauling away thousands of bushels of peaches to the markets. Many farmers already have harvested more than 2,000 bushels from their orchards. Peach pickers are needed, and farmers are offering higher wages than ever before.

BANDITS FRIGHTENED OFF AFTER LINING UP CLERKS IN TOLEDO STORE

TOLEDO.—Three bandits failed early Monday in an attempt to hold up Lloyd's store in the center of the business district. They had lined up the clerks against the wall, when a lookout at the door, thinking two approaching army recruiting officers were policemen, gave the alarm. The bandits rushed out to an automobile, knocking down a number of women in their haste. They escaped.

REACH BOUNDARY FIXED BY ALLIES

Russian Stronghold is Taken After Severe Battle

BOLSHEVIK LOSSES HEAVY

Many Prisoners and Material Seized by Warsaw Forces

WARSAW.—(By United Press.)—Gródno, the fortress city on the river Niemen, has been captured by the Polish army, it is officially announced by the general staff. This places the Polish forces on the Polish boundary line proposed by the Versailles peace conference.

Heavy fighting preceded the city's fall, the Bolsheviks resisting desperately. The reds were still battling fiercely in the vicinity of Gródno when the last advances were received here from the scene of action.

The Polish communique, referring to actions Saturday, announced important gains against the Bolshevik forces along the entire front. Soviet reinforcements failed to strengthen the many which fell back southeast of Gródno, losing 700 prisoners and a number of machine guns in Polish hands.

The communique said Polish troops had forced the Dniester-Bug canal and taken Kartuska Boreza and Rozany. RED STRONGHOLD

WARSAW.—(By Associated Press.)—Gródno, an important city in northwestern Russia, near the Lithuanian frontier, has been captured by Polish troops after heavy fighting, says an official statement issued here Monday morning.

A large number of prisoners and much war material were taken by the Poles, it is said. For some days Polish forces have been gradually working their way around the city, which has been the concentration point of Russian Bolshevik forces on the northeastern Polish front.

RUSSIANS ADMIT LOSS

LONDON.—(By Associated Press.)—A retreatment by the Russians in the Gródno region is admitted by the Russian Soviet war office in Sunday's official statement on military operations, received by wireless Monday. An advance to the southeast of Gródno, however, where the capture of Vokovsky is claimed, is recorded by the statement, which reads:

"In the Gródno region after a number of battles, our troops were withdrawn to the right bank of the Niemen. After fierce fighting we occupied Vokovsky and a number of villages seven miles westward."

ATTACK ON ALLIES

LONDON.—(By United Press.)—Russia's peace proposals to Poland contained a verbal attack on the allies, dispatches from Riga said Monday.

The soviet delegation said it was willing to "make heavy sacrifices" to defeat the aims of the "imperialist entente."

The entente, it was asserted, desired to see Polish-Russian hostilities continued until both countries are exhausted.

The note said a winter campaign would be a serious hardship for both countries and the Russian government believed it was bound to do its utmost to prevent further suffering and expense.

VETERANS ELECT

37th Names MacMacken President—Toledo Convention City

CLEVELAND.—(By United Press.)—Toledo won the double honor of being the next convention city of the 37th division veterans' association and having one of its citizens named president of the veterans. President of Toledo for the next convention fall, the weak effort to choose Montgomery, Ala., when the association met here Sunday.

General William MacMacken, Toledo, got the presidency by a large majority, over several other candidates. The other officers are:

Vice-president, Frank C. Gerlach, Wooster; secretary, Al N. Jappe, Cleveland; treasurer, Edward P. Lawlor, Columbus; members of the executive council to serve with officers, Harold M. Bush, Columbus; Wade C. Cruty, Youngstown, S. B. Stansberry, Cincinnati; E. S. Thatchler, Columbus; Major General C. S. Farnsworth, Washington; William Burnett, Cleveland; John C. Speaks, A. W. Reynolds and Arthur W. MacArthur, all of Columbus.

A resolution was adopted, asking the war department and congress to see that the 37th be given credit for capture of Monfaucon. Claim to its capture has already been made by the 19th division of New York.

CHRIST CHURCH IS RE-DEDICATED

Impressive Services Conducted by Bishop DuMoulin

FINANCIAL GOAL IS PASSED

Reconstructed Episcopal Church Given to God's Service

Impressive services marked the dedication of Christ church, Episcopal, Sunday morning. The goal of $15,000 which the parish hoped to raise to pay off half the indebtedness on the structure, was reached and more than $2,000 was had to spare. A number of reports are yet to be made.

The Rt. Rev. Frank DuMoulin, Toledo, bishop-coadjutor of the diocese, who conducted the dedication, declared it was the greatest effort he had seen from leader and people.

COURAGE WAS REQUIRED
In these times, such as have been unknown in the world's history and when building operations all over the country were stopped, it required greatest daring and courage to attempt such a building. And then to know that the parish has responded so liberally—it is to me reason for the deepest appreciation and gratitude in my own heart. I feel it was an undertaking unparalleled in the history of any church today, no matter what the resources.

"It will help me in the diocese, because I can say: just see what Christ church at Lima did. And your efforts will stand as a living problem of the enthusiasm of the people of the parish," the bishop said.

The supreme moment came when Bishop DuMoulin blessed the rector, the Rev. Kirk B. O'Ferrall, in a prayer which touched the hearts of every parishioner and caused them to solemnly promise within their own hearts to assist him to even greater things. It was then the efforts of the Rev. Mr. O'Ferrall and with the support and financial assistance of the congregation the handsome church building was created and finished.

A SUCCESSFUL PASTOR
"When you called the Rev. Mr. O'Ferrall to your parish, you expected to have to increase the seating capacity. Otherwise, you would have called another man. But not the most sanguine ever believed that his efforts and work would reach such a glorious result and be so fruitful of success," the bishop said.

It is the first parish ever held by the Rev. Mr. O'Ferrall. He came to Lima from St. Mark's large Episcopal church, Toledo, where he was curate.

The dedicatory prayers reached the climax when Bishop DuMoulin presented the church, a blessing to the Great Master for the fulfillment of good upon the earth and when he invoked the blessing of divine benediction upon the choir, the vestry, the altar officers and all who lead the various departments of the church, as well as every parishioner.

It was a solemn moment when prayers were raised to heaven for all those who formerly worshipped and were active in Christ church who have passed to the great beyond. Many families represented in the parish have loved ones now gone who were active in the old Christ church. The music was a feature of the dedicatory service. Mrs. Forster Robinson was director and Ernest C. Baird was at the remodeled pipe organ.

SERMON SUBJECT
Bishop DuMoulin selected for his subject, "Not by strength, nor by might, but by my spirit." He declared that placing the intellectual far above the spiritual had brought great countries to ruin. He declared the man who allowed his business to dominate him, instead of him operating the business, would be a failure in the end, for he could not give his time to the spiritual side of life.

More than 800 persons filled the church for the dedication, many persons from other congregations attending, to hear the sermon by Bishop DuMoulin, who has a wide reputation as a speaker.

On Sunday, October 10, the evening services, which have been discontinued for a year, due to remodeling work on the church, will be resumed.

There are now more than 100 regular attendants in the church Bible school, of which L. A. Larsen is superintendent.

More than 25 persons attended the celebration of the holy communion at 7:30 o'clock Sunday morning. Every indication is the church is included in a great wave of success which is spreading over the parish and which will rebound to its credit and fruitfulness. A large confirmation class will soon be started in instruction.

KIWANIS DELEGATION LEAVES TUESDAY FOR TOLEDO CONVENTION
A large delegation of members of Lima Kiwanis Club leave Tuesday morning for Toledo, where they will attend the state convention to be held in that city Tuesday and Wednesday. Convention headquarters will be at the La Salle hotel, and a program of business and pleasure has been arranged by the Toledo club for their guests.

Lima Kiwanians will challenge any club team in the state to a ball game for the state championship.

Included in the Lima delegation will be: J. E. Morton, Francis Durbin, C. M. Payne, J. J. Allgire, C. A. Black, E. J. Curtis, Walter DeWeese, George Eckert, Simon Fishel, H. L. Foltz, Joe Gooding, James Grubb, I. W. Green, Joe Hartline, Don Johns, Richard Jones, C. C. Heller, Walter Jackson, Wallace King, T. G. Scheid, H. A. Stonecker, A. E. Siferd, G. P. Dildine, O. S. JAP BOARD PLAN OPPOSED BY U.S.

Proposal for Anti-Alien Law Commission Unacceptable

ENVOYS CONTINUE PARLEY

Opinions on California Acts Differ, Report Says

WASHINGTON.—(By Associated Press.)—Administration officials continue to decline to discuss publication any of the phases of the negotiations with Japan growing out of the proposed anti-Japanese land law in California, but the impression has gone out that a proposal from Tokio that the question be referred to a joint commission for solution, would be unacceptable.

The conversations regarding the California law which have been going on between Ambassador Shidehara of Japan, and state department officials are continuing and so far as has been learned the proposal for a joint commission has not been formally communicated to Washington by the Japanese government.

WOULD PREVENT ALARM
What progress, if any, has been made in the negotiations, has not been disclosed. The attitude of the state department is described as one calculated to prevent the development of a feeling of alarm in the United States that might approach even approximately that which appears to be growing in Japan.

Conflicting opinions of both American and Japanese authorities on international law are said to have made the task of the state department officials and the Japanese ambassador more difficult. Proponents of the California law say that California is enacting a measure barring the Japanese from owning land in that state would be refusing to the Japanese in this country no rights or privileges which are not refused by Japanese law to Americans in Japan.

JAPANESE CLAIMS
Japan contends that the California law, which is to be voted on in November, is discriminatory because it does not apply to all foreigners alike as does the Japanese law. The suggestion has been made in Tokio that after the law is enacted it be tested in the United States supreme court. Some Japanese authorities on international law doubt that this will be effective as they state frankly that the proposed California law conflicts neither with the constitution nor with the terms of the American-Japanese treaty.

WHY 5%

The question is frequently asked, "Why does a Savings and Loan Company pay five per cent interest on deposits instead of a lower rate?" It is a fair question and here is a fair answer from The Allen County Savings and Loan Company as to its method of business.

This Company makes loans only upon approved real estate security and the business has been so carefully managed that not one dollar of any loan has ever been lost; fire insurance policies covering buildings on the land mortgaged must always be made payable to the Company in case of loss by fire; but the Company reserves the right to require notice of withdrawal; and a lower "overhead" expense makes a wide margin of profit necessary.

All loans made by this Company are made upon property in or near Lima and help to build up our own community and increases the value of local property and the number of home owners.

WE WERE THE LAST TO RAISE THE PRICES AND THE FIRST TO LOWER THEM

Newspapers all over the United States are displaying flaming headlines announcing great reductions in Retail Prices in almost every line of merchandise. This is ancient history in the J. C. Penney Co. Stores. We began revising our prices over six months ago. Our buyers in the New York office anticipated this reduction over a year ago, buying for 297 stores, paying cash when the banks were calling in their money and manufacturers were hard pressed. Our customers may be assured that as soon as the wholesale and manufacturers price reductions will permit, or even in advance of such an actual reduction the J. C. Penney Co. following absolute established principal, will offer their vast army of satisfied customers in 297 stores. Every reduction that their tremendous buying power will permit.

HOW IT IS POSSIBLE TO SELL FOR LESS AND MAKE MORE

At first thought you may not understand it. It means not only a square, honest deal, courtesy and truthful statements, but it means the selling of reliable merchandise at honest prices; it means a reasonable manufacturers' profit; a just and fair price to the consumer; it means a greater volume of business at lower prices. Here is the J. C. Penney conclusion. A profit of $2.00 on one article sold each day meant $2.00 for a day's effort, a profit on the same article of $1.00 and four sales would mean $4.00 for the day. It is not the profit of a single sale that our stores consider, but the profit on the volume of business which naturally results on account of the low prices. This is where our customers comes in, and there's nothing more vital at present high prices than selling goods with just two profits rather than the old method of eight or ten profits.

JUST A GIRL

BY JANE PHELPS

WORK AGAIN—FOR EIGHT DOLLARS

"We will have to move, Mary," I declared when we reached the street. "We can't stay in this neighborhood any longer. After tonight they will be angry, and perhaps annoy us more than ever. I am beginning to be afraid of them." Both Mike and Joe had flashed sullen, angry glances at us when we hurried away from the motion picture show.

"Yes—I guess we got to move. It makes me mad to have them two toughs run us out of the neighborhood. I'll find a place as near where we both work as we can, and move right away."

Monday I commenced the round of the department stores again. The one where I hoped to get work had already all the help they wanted, so I moved along, taking them hit-or-miss just as they came. After several rebuffs and some insulting remarks about my not looking like a girl who wanted work I found a position at last at the counter of one of the large department stores, at $3 a week.

"They only paid me $6 when I started," I heard a girl mutter, and wondered if I had been given $6 how I could have lived. Everything cost so much that even the $8 would not allow me to send Mother but little. I would have to pay for all my meals instead of getting them in addition to my salary, as I had at the restaurant.

However, I didn't dare refuse the place. I was tired, almost discouraged. No one wanted me, an inexperienced girl. I must manage somehow to learn typing and stenography. Yet how was I to do it on $8 a week?

"Be sure you are here on time. We dock you for tardiness," the stern looking man who had hired me, remarked as I left the office. "Yes, sir," I answered as meekly as any little ignorant girl could have answered. I must work. Evidently meekness was expected of a working girl, so I would cultivate it.

"I will not let them crush me though," I said aloud when I reached the street. My cheeks burned hotly, and I was trembling. "I'll learn something so that I can do office work! I'll manage it somehow." The $8 would keep me going until I found something better, I argued, not realizing in the least that the return I must give for that $8 would leave me neither time nor strength for anything else.

I stopped to see Mary. Fortunately, Mr. Watkins was out, so I left no embarrassment, only regret that I had been obliged to leave when the girls all greeted me pleasantly and said they missed me.

"I'll spend the rest of the day hunting a place to live," I told Mary. We talked things over for a few moments—it was dull time in the restaurant—and then I started out. I had taken a list of the advertised boarding houses in Sunday's paper, so I would waste no time.

About noon I found a place. Mrs. Leary seemed a good soul and her house was clean. I took the two back hall bedrooms on the top floor. "Why don't you be taking the big wan in front. Miss, if there's two of you?"

"No, Mrs. Leary. We work hard and need to have more rest than we could get if we roomed together."

"It's right we are! I was only a thinkin' it would be a bit pleasant for you. The back ain't much to see."

"We don't have much time to look out of the windows, and so long as it is clean, and comfortable that is all we require."

"Where do you work?" she asked rather sharply, giving me a keen look.

"In Marden's Department store. Mary Murphy works in a restaurant. May I ask why? Does it make any difference where your roomers work?"

"No—dear. I only asked because you seemed so good spoken. Different folks, but the other, Mary Murphy, is she looks you too?"

YOUR NAME

BY PHILIP FRANCIS NOWLAN
VARIATIONS—Tucker, Fuller.
RACIAL ORIGIN—English.
SETBACK—An occupation.

A "walker" of course, would be one who walks. Yet this hardly explains the frequency with which Walker is met as a family name today. It would be hard to imagine that a sufficient number of persons had obtained fame as walkers in a period when very few rode, to account for the number of Walker families to be found in this country.

The answer lies in this: the "walker" of medieval England was one who walked with a purpose. It was his occupation to tread on woolen cloth while it was being thickened, shrank or "fuller" in a soap washing. Today fulling machines do this work in our dyeing and finishing plants but in those days the cloth was manipulated by hands and feet, or "marius en pees" as one old Norman French document has it.

The "walker," then, was simply a "fuller." The "tucker" was also a "fuller," all three of these words being virtually interchangeable in the Middle Ages as designating the occupation. Of course their first use as names was simply a descriptive addition to a man's given name, as in "Percival le Tonkare," but in the course of time people thought of the man rather than the occupation when they used it so, and then it would be applied to his children, becoming in a great many cases hereditary, while in others the descendants of fullers might become known by family names formed in other ways.

Are You Human?

A little baby. A little child. Don't they appeal to you? Doesn't your heart yearn to pick them up, to cuddle them close to you, to shield them, from all harm? sure it does else you're not human. Being human you love them. Their very helplessness makes you reach out in all your strength to aid them. In health there's no flower so beautiful. In illness there's no sight so black.

Save them then. Use every precaution. Take no chance. When sickness comes, as sickness will, remember it's just a baby, just a child and if the Physician isn't at hand don't try some remedy that you may have around the house for your own use.

Fletcher's Castoria was made especially for babies' ills and you can use it with perfect safety as any doctor will tell you. Keep it in the house.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Do the People Know?

Do you know why you are asked to call for Fletcher's Castoria when you want a child's remedy? why you must insist on Fletcher's? For years we have been explaining how the popularity of Fletcher's Castoria has brought out innumerable imitations, substitutes and counterfeits.

To protect the babies: to shield the homes and in defense of generations to come we appeal to the better judgment of parents to insist on having Fletcher's Castoria when in need of a child's medicine. And remember above all things that a child's medicine is made for children—a medicine prepared for grown-ups is not interchangeable. A baby's food for a baby. And a baby's medicine is just as essential for the baby.

The Castoria Recipe (it's on every wrapper) has been prepared by the same hands in the same manner for so many years that the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and perfection in the product are synonymous.

IN SCIENCE'S INTEREST

THE news columns tell the story of a contribution made to science by an aged Dayton physician, Dr. J. C. Reeve, who died recently at the age of 94. Following an agreement made several years ago by Dr. Reeve with Prof. Wilder, head of the medical department of Cornell University and provided for in his will, the brain of the deceased medical practitioner will be sent to Cornell soon.

In willing his brain to the cause of science, Dr. Reeve was actuated purely by a desire to afford medical men an opportunity to further study the cerebrum. Dr. Reeve was considered a mental giant and his contribution to science is regarded as of great value.

Quite likely large numbers of persons will contemplate with horror the mutilation of a dead body for the purpose of removing an organ, even in aid of science. During the past few years medical men have been making an exhaustive study of the human brain, its make-up and cells, with the result that operations are now being performed successfully on the living that in the past were looked upon as beyond the shade of possibility.

Often we read about prominent persons willing their bodies to medical colleges, to be used for scientific study after life has departed. And many persons, for a price paid to them while living, contract for the delivery of their bodies to scientific men after death. These bodies, the rich and the poor, the high and the low, the educated and untutored, go into the pickling vat together, there to remain until ready for demonstration purposes before student bodies.

This is a somewhat gruesome subject, but it reveals information concerning a side of life—or rather death—with which few are acquainted, or perhaps which they do not care to hear a great deal about. The contribution made to science by the Dayton physician may be the means of affording information that will result in lives of others being prolonged or mental defects remedied. In such event, the sacrifice will not have been made in vain.

EXAMPLE OF LUCIUS POPIDIUS

IN Germany, too, some aspects of politics are boring. The Frankfurter Zeitung digs up an instance of better days. "Our politicians," it declares, "should go to London and there they can see, under a glass case in the British Museum, a model of an election bulletin. It was in the year 19 A. D. that one Lucius Popidius was a candidate for the position of aedilis, or as we say, police judge. This was the sole and only campaign document his party issued: 'See to it that L. Popidius is made aedilis. He deserves it.' O, peace that was Rome's in those days!"

Did L. Popidius get the job? The tablet in the British Museum does not seem to say, yet that is the really important feature of the anecdote. If he lost out and some Marcus Bivolupus or Johannus Smithus, who took full pages in the Acta Diurna to explain his case and plastered every billboard in Rome with his countenance and the hot inquiry: "What did

L. Popidius do for his country in the great war?" or "Will L. Popidius tell whether or not the Roman Gas and Electric Corporation is behind his candidacy?" was elected—why, then, the tablet would be a warning to candidates of an evil to avoid, not of an example to follow.

But suppose L. Popidius was elected. Suppose a weary electorate should respond gladly to the complete erasure of a candidate from its attention, barring the simple announcement that he is a good man and deserves the job. Think what this would mean. No anecdotes about the candidate's father, mother, early life on the farm, school days, first love, marriage, struggles to get along and first successes; no tiresome descriptions of his domestic life or his children, of his front porch, back porch, barn or garage; no pictures of him getting off trains or on trains; no uninspired nonsense about his tastes in food, literature and music; no interviews with delegations, newspaper men or politicians; no replies to notifications of his candidacy; but a complete blank, a silence, a saying nothing.

Might it not be true that Americans would vote for a candidate who kept himself comparatively anonymous?

ONE AND A CROWD

IT occurred while a band was coming down the street—with the clarinets going tootle-to-tootle, the big bass drum roaring the bum-bum-bum and the horns sounding bla-bla-bla.

And everybody on the street fell into step, among them a man who rather prided himself on never keeping step with anyone. Away he went, spring in his knees, youth in his heart, sounding brass in his ears. He was absorbed, he was sharing a general emotion. And suddenly he realized what he was doing—running with the crowd. He was participating and actually enjoying, a "vulgar" sensation.

As he saw it, these people about him were slaves, standpats, servants and masters, blind, ossified, driven and driven. He had nothing in common with them—ugh! He was 50 years ahead of them, the stupid mass. Yet here he was keeping step with the music which thrilled them just as much as it thrilled him. So immediately and deliberately he got out of step and all the way down the street as soon as he found his body getting into step again with that infernal music, just as immediately he got out of step once more. It was irritating, but he told himself he was winning a victory.

He wasn't really winning a victory at all. He was simply being a snob. Even his so-called intellectualism was really snobbery—derived from inability or unwillingness to enjoy the pleasures of the rest of us. His objection to the comic supplements, to the popular magazines, to blaring bands is not fundamental but self-made and the real truth is that these fellows are not really cultured at all—but hopelessly low-brow. The "crowd" has it on them in a thousand ways.

HEALTH HINTS FOR TODAY

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

It is to many sufferers a painful question why one boil is so likely to be followed by a series. Long ago Old Doctor Bunk intimated in his spring tonic or blood purifier almanac that a crop or succession of boils indicated "impure blood," the boils being presumably "corruption" coming to the surface. This explanation made a big hit with the credulous almanac readers, and moreover it helped sell many bottles of Doctor Bunk's concoctions, for once the victim began taking the junk each new bottle was evidence that the medicine was "drawing" the impurities out of the system. Of all the idiotic notions the grand old public has been bred on this one of medicine driving poison in or out or thru or under is the most absurd, tho it is still one of the biggest selling points the nostrum exploiters have.

We need not postulate any particular fault of the blood in order to account for boils, furuncles or crops of boils, or recurring boils. A boil is a little abscess, and an abscess is a collection of pus (commonly called matter) the debris left when tissue substance breaks down and dies, together with the dead bodies of innumerable millions of scavenger cells (white blood corpuscles, phagocytes). These scavenger cells make their way thru the delicate walls of the microscopic capillary blood vessels and migrate thru the tissues to attack invading germs; if the scavenger cells or phagocytes win, they shallow or more properly wrap themselves around bunches of the germs and digest and destroy the invaders—which disappear in the bodies of the white cells. If the germs win, the white cells die, and become pus cells.

The germs responsible for the boil gain entrance thru some minute or unnoticed break of the skin, such as an abrasion produced by a razor cut or band or the friction of some part of the clothing on the skin. The healthy, clean skin constantly harbors germs capable of setting up inflammation or pus-formation if they once find their way into the skin. Playing this role seems to arouse or increase the virulence of the germs.

One of the most difficult features in first aid for wounds is insistence on a strict policy of "hands off." It is human nature to touch the wound with the fingers, and this impulse is even stronger in the case of a boil. Now once the fingers touch a boil or the skin over a boil, the fingers are contaminated with pus-producing germs, and may readily convey the virulent or aroused germs to new fields, implanting them for the production of new boils. This, then, is the usual explanation for the second and all subsequent boils. There is no excuse for ever touching a boil.

CORK SHAKEN AS M'SWINEY SINKS

Irish City is Rocked by Violent Explosion

MAYOR PASSES BAD NIGHT

Severe Battles Rage in Streets of Belfast

CORK.—(By Associated Press)—A violent explosion shook this city about 2 o'clock Monday morning. It was followed by the rattle of rifle fire in various parts of the business district. When the townspeople ventured forth later in the morning, after the curfew had closed, they found the main thoroughfare, Patrick street, littered with glass and the front of a large department store, which is said to employ a large number of young Sinn Féiners, completely wrecked as if by bombs.

Windows were smashed in the upper stories of almost every store in the vicinity.

MACSWINEY EXHAUSTED

LONDON.—(By Associated Press)—Lord Mayor Terence MacSwiney of Cork passed another bad night at Brixton prison, and was in a very weak and exhausted condition Monday morning, said a bulletin issued by the Irish-Self-Determination League. This is the forty-sixth day of his hunger strike.

SEVERE STREET BATTLE

BELFAST.—(By Associated Press)—The shooting by snipers and others which occurred in the center of Belfast Sunday night caused a panic among the crowds promenading in Royal-ave, the city's main artery, after church hours. The disturbance followed the shootings of Saturday night and early Sunday in which one soldier was killed and two others were wounded, followed by the assassination of three civilians in reprisal by parties of masked men.

The opening incident of Sunday night's disorders occurred when snipers in side streets of the Sun Fain quarters fired into the street. A tram car came into the line of fire and there was great alarm among the passengers crouched on the floor.

BOOM IS EXPLODED

CORK.—(By United Press)—A bomb exploded here early Monday and destroyed a small drink establishment. Police surrounded the place quickly and there was an exchange of rifle fire. Machine guns were brought into play, also.

BEST MARKSMEN SAID TO HAVE BLUE EYES

CLEVELAND, O.—If you aspire to fame as a marksman and have blue eyes you have the jump on the fellow with eyes of any other color, according to Frank Troeh, Vancouver, Wash., one of the winners in the shoot at Antwerp. Troeh has an international reputation as a marksman and participated in the Grand American Handicap Tournament here.

"Tests have proven that blue-eyed shooters can break more birds day in and day out," Troeh said. "Blue eyes are keener and faster in following the clasp as they sail from the traps."

The mere possession of blue eyes does not make an expert shooter, Troeh said and urged constant practice as the medium to perfection. "It's just like driving an automobile or doing any other thing," he said. "The longer you are at it and the more care you take to follow the rules, the better you are."

Troeh's eyes are light blue.

STRIKE OF 15,000 COAL MINERS TO BE DECIDED AT MEETING LATE TODAY

BRIDGEPORT.—Early indications Monday pointed to the materialization of the strike threat of approximately 15,000 coal miners in the eastern Ohio field. The strike was threatened several days ago by leaders who demanded pay for moving all stone instead of receiving payment for stone over 12 inches thick as provided in the contract.

Mine officials reported that an insignificant proportion of their workers reported for duty when the mines opened Monday. The headquarters of the operators' association issued a statement to the effect that the extent of the strike will not be determined until late in the day.

WILLIS IS OPPOSED

Labor Takes Stand Against G. O. P. Candidate for Senate

COLUMBUS.—(By United Press)—Ohio State Federation of Labor's non-partisan committee, meeting here Sunday afternoon, with an Ohio miners' committee, approved political recommendations which retain the organization's neutrality on most of the state offices to be filled in November.

No preference is recommended in the gubernatorial race, both Vice Donahy Democrat, and Harry L. Davis, Republican, candidates for governor, being held "satisfactory" to labor.

In the case of the United States senatorial race, the candidacy of Frank B. Willis, Republican, is opposed. The committee's report suggests that the four members of the supreme court, two Democrats and two Republicans, who are up for re-election this fall, could be returned to that bench "without injury to labor."

CAPITAL MAID TO WED A ROOSEVELT

Miss Virginia Lee Minor, the engagement of Miss Virginia Lee Minor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tucker Sands, of Richmond, and Washington to Robert B. Roosevelt, Jr., has been announced. He is the grandson of Robert B. Roosevelt, one time minister to Holland. Miss Minor made her debut in Washington.

HIGH SCHOOL SECURES ILLICIT STILL FOR USE IN ITS LABORATORY

STEBURNVILLE.—A still is to be placed in the high school building here.

What is more—the police know about it. But no arrests are contemplated.

R. I. Ervin, superintendent of schools, requested W. D. Downer, a Justice of the Peace to donate to the school one of the stills which are being confiscated in Jefferson almost at the rate of one each day.

Superintendent Ervin explained that the high school chemistry laboratory is badly in need of a still. It is the practice to junk the captured stills. Justice Downer, however, promised to comply with Superintendent Ervin's request.

MINERS WORK OVERTIME FOR UPLIFT MONEY

BERLIN.—(By Mail)—The Waldenburg coal miners have decided to make a monthly overtime during one year and devote the proceeds thereof to welfare purposes. The sum of about three million marks thus raised will be applied to the construction of forest rest homes for children. They further agreed to make another shift once per year raising 250,000 marks which will be used for the construction of the same kind of homes for the women themselves.

CLAIM NEAR BEER CONTAINS ETHER

Is What Makes Drinkers Quarrel—Some Police Say

CINCINNATI.—Cincinnati police are worried. It's all because of prohibition. In the old days when 16 ounce schooners running over with honest to goodness beer could be had at most any bar for five cents, the drunkards arrested were a hilarious lot of citizens. They often sang themselves to sleep in the jail house, and promised to remember the Turkey in their will.

It's a different story these days. The number of drunks arrested has decreased approximately 75 per cent; since the advent of the 18th amendment, those arrested are a bad dispositioned lot. Nowadays the drunken man screams with fury when brought before the registering officer. Often he must be carried to his cell. He beats upon the steel bars and shouts defiance to the aforesaid well-loved world. He does not sing. He shouts curses upon the ancestors and progeny of the Turkey. He falls asleep howling imprecations.

What is it that has taken the good nature out of drunkenness? Is a question the policemen continually are asking one another. Rumors have gone the rounds that the "beer" being sold in Cincinnati has been treated with ether. The ether is supposed to put the "kick" in the "beer" which makes the drinkers rather stupefied, gives them an awful headache and a disordered stomach the next day. It is also rumored that smuggled whiskey from Canada has been reduced in alcoholic content to about 50 percent and then treated with ether to conceal the reduced "kick" percentage.

Federal authorities, however, scout the ether story. Dr. Leo Forst, chief federal chemist, says that none of the beer has analyzed has shown any trace of ether and he doubts that ether is being used by anyone. He says it would not be soluble in the watery concoction one-half of one percent alcohol beer, but says it might be soluble in whiskey.

Either or no ether, policemen still maintain that there is something in the stuff drunks these days that makes them bad men.

FAMOUS ASTOR PALACE, LONDON, TO BE SOLD

LONDON.—The Astor Palace on the Thames Embankment is to be sold by auction. The office is described as a treasure palace costing 250,000 pounds or (about $1,250,000) in which a multi-millionaire kept his business records and at the same time allowed his artistic tastes full scope.

Built of grey stone in the Tudor style, it is almost as impregnable as a fortress. One of the most interesting apartments in the building is the bedroom prepared for the late Lord Astor. For many years he was invariably used this when he was in London. The late Lord Astor managed his American estates from the office.

MEN AND MATTERS

N. W. Basinger, Bluffton, Democratic candidate for County Treasurer, a visitor in Lima Monday, stated that considerable interest is attaching to plans for a Democratic rally to be held in Bluffton soon. A straw vote taken at Bluffton indicates that the village will go strongly Democratic.

Arthur F. Lindemann, Delphos, Democratic candidate for Probate Judge of Allen-co., was a caller in Lima Monday, bringing with him a message of optimism from the western part of the county concerning prospects of election results.

M. E. Cowen, 716 S. Elizabeth-st., is elated over receipt of information from Canton Ohio, that Rufus Red Belgian Hares he exhibited at the Stark-co fair took first prizes for senior and junior doe. The senior doe took first premium at the recent state fair, at Columbus. There were 800 in competition at Canton and 700 at Columbus.

A civil service examination of applicants for the position of clerk at the Lima postoffice will be held October 2. The entrance salary is $1,400 per year, with an automatic increase of $100 per year until the maximum of $1,800 is reached. Further information in regard to the examination may be obtained from Clerk C. F. Walther at the Lima office.

"From now on until the election," President L. Earl Ludwig of the Allen-co. Club stated Monday, "a meeting of the members of the club will be held at the court house every Friday evening, at 7:30 o'clock."

Democrats of Sugar Creek-tp. are arranging for a big get-together meeting to be held soon, the date not having been announced. Judge William Klinger is to be the speaker. President L. Earl Ludwig of the Cox club announced Monday.

NO BIDS RECEIVED

Big Block of City Bonds Not in Demand

When offered for sale the second time Monday noon, no bids were received on $224,000 worth of notes issued by the city for the construction of the Central-ave relief sewer, according to City Auditor David L. Rupert.

When offered for sale several weeks ago, only one bid was received, and it according to Rupert, contained requirements which made it impossible for the city to accept. It was thought that the market had improved sufficiently that the paper would sell Monday.

Rupert said the work on the sewer, will in all probability be continued under the present arrangement with the contractor to accept the city's short time note in payment as estimates are presented. A temporary agreement if this effect was entered into after the bonds failed to sell when first offered.

RUN ON BANK IS HALTED BY LAW

Boston Institution Invokes Act to Protect Depositors

BOSTON.—(By Associated Press)—Several hundred persons gathered outside the offices of the Tremont Trust Company here Monday when the doors were opened at 8.45 a. m. 15 minutes before the usual hour, and lines quickly formed at the several paying tellers' windows.

After withdrawals had been going on steadily for nearly an hour, with the crowds constantly increasing, the bank officials announced that the law permitting a bank to require 90 days' notice for withdrawals from the savings departments would be invoked forthwith "for the protection of the depositors." The regulation would be withdrawn "as soon as the public calmed itself." It was announced.

"We have plenty of money to pay everybody," officials said, "and were prepared to do so this morning but the crowd became so large that it was impossible to handle them and we invoked the law for the protection of the depositors, not for our own protection."

Upon opening for business Monday, the Fidelity Trust Company served notice on depositors that it would take advantage of the law permitting it to require 90 days' notice of withdrawal from its savings department.

It was stated at the bank that this was done upon the direction of Joseph C. Allen, state bank commissioner. At his office it was said that the taking of this action was optional with the banks.

SHORTAGE OF ICE

Breakdown in Plant Cuts Supply in Lima Monday

A breakdown in the plant of the Crystal Ice Co. Monday threatened the city with a near ice famine. The break, however, will be repaired, according to word from the office of the company in time to make deliveries Tuesday.

There has been an exceptional demand for ice during the past week or so, it was declared because of the warm weather, thus cutting down the reserve.

The plant has hardly been able to keep up with the heavy demand, it was declared.

COX WILL CARRY KANSAS

Prospects Brighter Now Than For Wilson in 1916

TOPEKA, Kan.—Prospects are better for Cox in Kansas right now than they were for Wilson at the end of September, 1916—and Wilson that year carried Kansas by 37,000. That is the situation you hear in Kansas when you talk national politics.

Republicans are worried particularly because Governor Henry J. Allen, who won in 1916 by 162,000, in spite of the fact that Wilson carried the state, cannot be expected this year to help the Harding candidate. Allen is running on the Republican ticket for re-election, is hurting Harding. For he has alienated labor thru his court of industrial relations and a large segment of Republican farmers have turned against him. The latter are rebelling because of opposition to three state constitutional amendments Allen is championing.

HAS HARD FIGHT This growing animosity toward Allen is boosting Democratic stock tremendously. Even Republicans admit Allen has a hard fight against Jonathan M. Davis, Democratic candidate for governor.

Davis has great strength with the farmers, for he is a farmer himself and now lives on the farm where he was born.

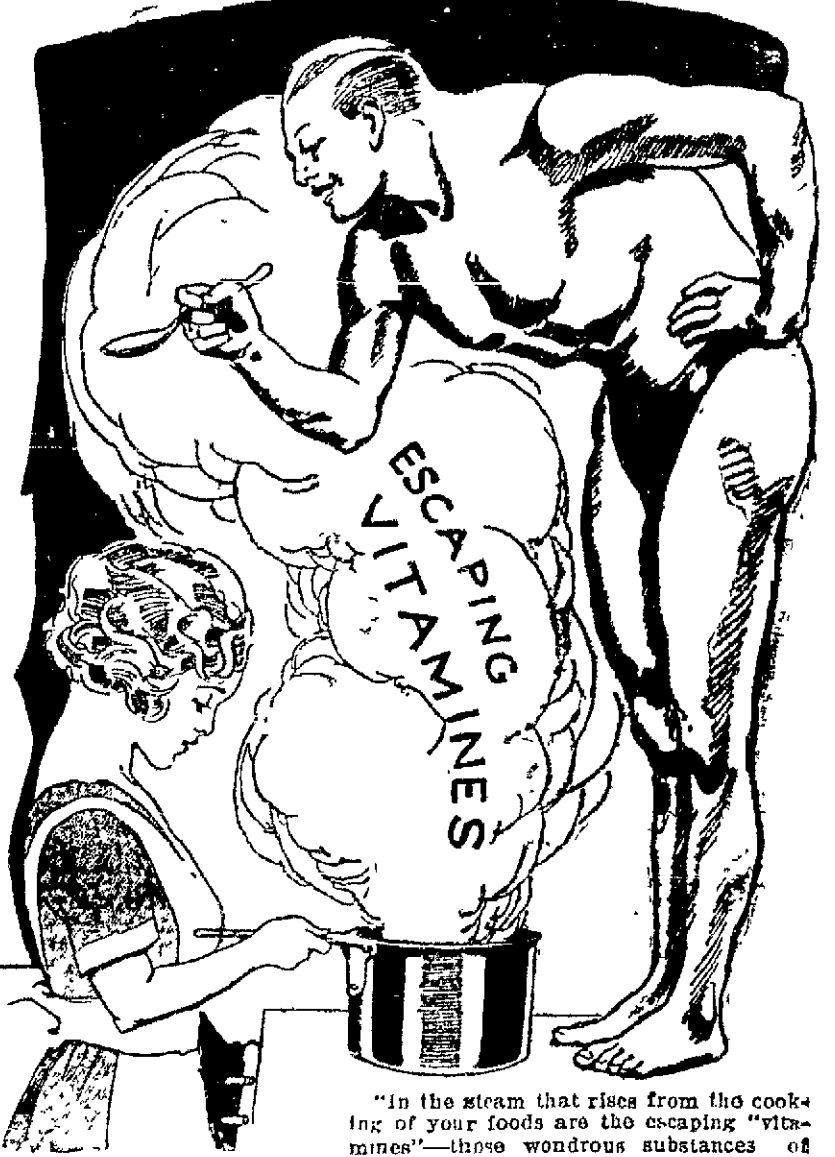

Anti-Allen feeling among farmers and labor is overwhelming among labor—would be sufficient to put over both Cox for president and Davis for governor.

Women are expected to take a decided Democratic leaning in Kansas because of their support of the League of Nations, as in other states.

YOUR DOCTOR KNOWS WHAT "VITAMINES" ARE—BUT DO YOU?

With Plenty in Your Body You Can Be Strong and Well—Without Them You Remain Weak, Nervous and Run-down, Says Physician. Explains How These Life-giving Substances of Nature—Lost in the Cooking of Most Everyday Foods—Have Been Concentrated and Combined with Other Health-Building Elements to Help Increase Energy, Vitality and Power.

"In the steam that rises from the cooking of your foods are the escaping 'vitamines'—those wondrous substances of nature—a precious gift to you as life itself—for they mean life—they mean health—they mean power. The less of them you get into your body the weaker and more run-down you are, while with plenty you may well expect to become infinitely stronger and far more vigorous. Yet until recently science knew but little of these mysterious substances, and Physicians, never dreaming of the necessity for vitamins, were often at a loss to account for the failure of the tonics, drugs and diets they prescribed." This is the statement of John J. Rudolph, a former Health Commissioner, late of New York Hospital Staff and a graduate of the University of Baltimore.

Continuing Dr. Rudolph said: "It is safe to say that nine out of ten people in this country today would probably be far better off physically and mentally if they would get a trial of these life-giving vitamins into their systems in capsule form. There is no doubt that the most common lack of energy, loss of weight, nervous troubles, shallow skin and a general run-down condition, the astonishing health-building power of vitamins has been clearly demonstrated by medical research. But not until the introduction of a tablet combining the concentrated vitamins with other health-building elements in the form known to druggists as VITAMON was there any means as far as I can tell by which the average person could derive anything like the benefits which these vitamins within their reach."

But as rapid, no pronounced and so amazing are the results it has produced by Vitamin, that no matter what anyone says, I do not believe there is anything whatsoever to which this discovery can be compared. Not until you have taken Vitamin you will understand that they make the following unconditional guarantee.

If after using Vitamin you are not entirely satisfied with the results and are not convinced that it has been worth to you far more than you paid for it, the trial will cost you absolutely nothing. Vitamin may now be obtained in this city from all leading druggists such as Hunter, Red Cross, Cunningham, Baldwin's Central Drug, Intercontinental Drug.

IN SCIENCE'S INTEREST

THE new columns tell the story of a contribution made to science by an aged Dayton physician, Dr. J. C. Reeve, who died recently at the age of 94. Following an agreement made several years ago by Dr. Reeve with Prof. Wilder, head of the medical department of Cornell University and provided for in his will, the brain of the deceased medical practitioner will be sent to Cornell soon.

In willing his brain to the cause of science, Dr. Reeve was actuated purely by a desire to afford medical men an opportunity to further study the cerebrum. Dr. Reeve was considered a mental giant and his contribution to science is regarded as of great value.

Quite likely large numbers of persons will contemplate with horror the mutilation of a dead body for the purpose of removing an organ, even in aid of science. During the past few years medical men have been making an exhaustive study of the human brain, its make-up and cells, with the result that operations are now being performed successfully on the living that in the past were looked upon as beyond the shade of possibility.

Often we read about prominent persons willing their bodies to medical colleges, to be used for scientific study after life has departed. And many persons, for a price paid to them while living, contract for the delivery of their bodies to scientific men after death. These bodies, the rich and the poor, the high and the low, the educated and untutored, go into the pickling vat together, there to remain until ready for demonstration purposes before student bodies.

This is a somewhat gruesome subject, but it reveals information concerning a side of life—or rather death—with which few are acquainted, or perhaps which they do not care to hear a great deal about. The contribution made to science by the Dayton physician may be the means of affording information that will result in lives of others being prolonged or mental defects remedied. In such event, the sacrifice will not have been in vain.

EXAMPLE OF LUCIUS POPIDIUS

IN Germany, too, some aspects of politics are boring. The Frankfurter Zeitung digs up an instance of better days. "Our politicians," it declares, "should go to London and there they can see, under a glass case in the British Museum, a model of an election bulletin. It was in the year 19 A. D. that one Lucius Popidius was a candidate for the position of aedilis, or as we say, police judge. This was the sole and only campaign document his party issued: 'See to it that L. Popidius is made aedilis. He deserves it.' O, peace that was Rome's in those days!"

Did L. Popidius get the job? The tablet in the British Museum does not seem to say, yet that is the really important feature of the anecdote. If he lost out and some Marcus Bivolupus or Johannes Smithus, who took full pages in the Acta Diurna to explain his case and plastered every billboard in Rome with his countenance and the hot inquiry: "What did

L. Popidius do for his country in the great war?" or "Will L. Popidius tell whether or not the Roman Gas and Electric Corporation is behind his candidacy?" was elected—why, then, the tablet would be a warning to candidates of an evil to avoid, not of an example to follow.

But suppose L. Popidius was elected. Suppose a weary electorate should respond gladly to the complete erasure of a candidate from its attention, barring the simple announcement that he is a good man and deserves the job. Think what this would mean. No anecdotes about the candidate's father, mother, early life on the farm, school days, first love, marriage, struggles to get along and first successes; no tiresome descriptions of his domestic life or his children, of his front porch, back porch, barn, or garage; no pictures of him getting off trains or on trains; no uninspired nonsense about his tastes in food, literature and music; no interviews with delegations, newspaper men or politicians; no replies to notifications of his candidacy; but a complete blank, a silence, a saying nothing.

Might it not be true that Americans would vote for a candidate who kept himself comparatively anonymous?

ONE AND A CROWD

IT occurred while a band was coming down the street—with the clarinets going tootle-to-tootle, the big bass drum roaring the hum-bum-bum and the horns sounding bla-bla-bla.

And everybody on the street fell into step, among them a man who rather prided himself on never keeping step with anyone. Away he went, spring in his knees, youth in his heart, sounding brass in his ears. He was absorbed, he was sharing a general emotion. And suddenly he realized what he was doing—running with the crowd. He was participating and actually enjoying, a "vulgar" sensation.

As he saw it, these people about him were slaves, standpats, servants and masters, blind, orsified, driver and driven. He had nothing in common with them—ugh! He was 50 years ahead of them, the stupid mass. Yet here he was keeping step with the music which thrilled them just as much as it thrilled him. So immediately and deliberately he got out of step and all the way down the street as soon as he found his body getting into step again with that infernal music, just as immediately he got out of step once more. It was irritating, but he told himself he was winning a victory.

He wasn't really winning a victory at all. He was simply being a snob. Even his so-called intellectualism was really snobbery—derived from inability or unwillingness to enjoy the pleasures of the rest of us. His objection to the comic supplements, to the popular magazines, to blaring bands is not fundamental but self-made and the real truth is that these fellows are not really cultured at all—but hopelessly low-brow. The "crowd" has it on them in a thousand ways.

JUST A GIRL

BY JANE PHELPS

WORK AGAIN—FOR EIGHT DOLLARS

"We will have to move, Mary," I declared when we reached the store. "We can't stay in this neighborhood any longer. After tonight they will be angry, and perhaps annoy us more than ever. I am beginning to be afraid of them." Both Mike and Joe had flushed sullen, angry glances at us when we hurried away from the motion picture show.

"Yes—I guess we got to move. It makes me mad to have them two toughs run us out!"

"I'll get a position first, then we'll find a place as near where we both work as we can, and move right away."

Monday I commenced the round of the department stores again. The one where I hoped to get work had already all the help they wanted, so I moved along, taking them bit-by-bit just as they came. After several rebuffs and some insulting remarks about my not looking like a girl who wanted work I found a position at least at the notion counter of one of the large department stores, at $3 a week.

They only paid me $3 when I started. I heard a girl mutter, and wondered if I had been given $3 how I could have lived. Everything cost so much that even the $3 would not allow me to send Mother but little. I would have to pay for all my meals instead of getting them in addition to my salary, as I had at the restaurant.

However, I didn't dare return the place. I was tired, almost discouraged. No one wanted me, an inexperienced girl. I must manage somehow to learn typing and stenography. Yet how was I to do it on $3 a week?

"Be sure you are here on time. We dock you for tardiness," the stern looking man who had hired me, remarked as I left the office.

"Yes, sir," I answered as meekly as any little ignorant girl could have answered. I must work. Evidently employers were expected of a working girl, so I would cultivate it.

"I will not let them crush me," I said aloud when I reached the street. My cheeks burned hotly, and I was trembling. "I'll learn something so that I can do office work! I'll manage it somehow!"

The $3 would keep me going until I found something better, I argued. Not realizing in the least that the rest of the world was not so kind, I would have to make my time now strength for anything else.

I stopped to see Mary. Fortunately, Mr. Watkins was out, so I felt no embarrassment, only regret that I had been obliged to leave when the girls all greeted me pleasantly and said they missed me.

"I'll spend the rest of the day hunting a place to live," I told Mary. We talked things over for a few minutes. I was still tired, so in the restaurant, and then I started out. I had taken a list of the advertised boarding houses in Sunday's paper, so I would waste no time.

About noon I found a place, Mrs. Leary seemed a good soul and her house was clean. I took the two back hall bedrooms on the top floor.

"Why don't you be taken" the big man in front, Mrs. Leary's two of you?"

"No, Mrs. Leary. We work hard and need to have more rest than we could get if we roomed together."

"It's right we are! I was only a thinkin' it would be a bit pleasanter for yees. The back ain't much to see."

"We don't have much time to look out of the windows, and so long as it is clean, and comfortable that is all we require."

"Where do you work?" she asked rather sharply, giving me a keen look.

"In Marden's Department store. Mary Murphy works in a restaurant. May I ask why? Does it make any difference where your roomers work?"

"No—dear. I only asked because you seemed so good spoken. Different folks. But—the other, Mary Murphy, is she like you too?"

YOUR NAME

BY PHILIP FRANCIS NOWLAN
VARIATIONS—Tucker, Fuller.
RACIAL ORIGIN—English.
SETBACK—An occupation.

A "walker" of course, would be one who walks. Yet this hardly explains the frequency with which Walker is met as a family name today. It would be hard to imagine that a sufficient number of persons had obtained time as walkers in a period when very few rode, to account for the number of Walker families to be found in this country.

The answer lies in this: the "walker" of medieval England was one who walked with a purpose. It was his occupation to tread on woolen cloth while it was being thickened, shrunk or "full" in a soap washing. Today fulling machines do this work in our dyeing and finishing plants but in those days the cloth was manipulated by hands and feet, or "mays on pees" as one old Norman French document has it.

The "walker," then, was simply a "fuller." The "tucker" was also a "fuller," all three of these words being virtually interchangeable in the Middle Ages as designating the occupation. Of course their first use as names was simply a descriptive addition to a man's given name, as in "Perceval le Toukire," but in the course of time people thought of the man rather than the occupation when they used it, and then it would be applied to his children, becoming in a great many cases hereditary, while in others the descendants of fullers might become known by family names formed in other ways.

Tomorrow—MacDonald.

Are You Human?

A little baby. A little child. Don't they appeal to you? Doesn't your heart yearn to pick them up, to cuddle them close to you, to shield them, from all harm? sure it does else you're not human. Being human you love them. Their very helplessness makes you reach out in all your strength to aid them. In health there's no flower so beautiful. In illness there's no sight so black.

Save them then. Use every precaution. Take no chance.

When sickness comes, as sickness will, remember it's just a baby, just a child and if the Physician isn't at hand don't try some remedy that you may have around the house for your own use.

Fletcher's Castoria was made especially for babies' ills and you can use it with perfect safety as any doctor will tell you. Keep it in the house.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Do the People Know?

Do you know why you are asked to call for Fletcher's Castoria when you want a child's remedy? why you must insist on Fletcher's? For years we have been explaining how the popularity of Fletcher's Castoria has brought out innumerable imitations, substitutes and counterfeits.

To protect the babies: to shield the homes and in defense of generations to come we appeal to the better judgment of parents to insist on having Fletcher's Castoria when in need of a child's medicine. And remember above all things that a child's medicine is made for children—a medicine prepared for grown-ups is not interchangeable. A baby's food for a baby. And a baby's medicine is just as essential for the baby.

The Castoria Recipe (it's on every wrapper) has been prepared by the same hands in the same manner for so many years that the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and perfection in the product are synonymous.

Hironamus Skinner thought he picked a winner
When he chose Miss Ruby La Rue.
Hironamus, he was a stingy old sinner.

If tales by the neighbors were true,
She made her own dresses
And combed her own tresses
And cooked like a French chef or two.

Hi thought he'd save money
Or it would be funny
When he had wed Ruby La Rue;

The handy Miss Ruby,
The dandy Miss Ruby,
Efficient Miss Ruby La Rue.

Hironamus Skinner asked her out to dinner,
The hard-working Ruby La Rue.
Hironamus, he was determined to win her

In spite of all Ruby could do.
She toyed with her haikes
Like all maidens Yankee.

Then next a resounding "boo-hoo"
At last she consented
And Hi was contented.
She smiled, did Ruby La Rue;

The scheming Miss Ruby,
The dreaming Miss Ruby,
The beaming Miss Ruby La Rue.

Hironamus Skinner was just a beggar,
He didn't know Ruby La Rue.
For Ruby, as soon as she let him win her,

Forgot everything that she knew,
With all sorts of work she was through.
Two maids she demanded,
And she was quite candid,

A chef and a chauffeur.
And she was a loafer.
Was former Miss Ruby La Rue.
The once busy Ruby,
That now dixie Ruby,
The married Miss Ruby La Rue.

We have just seen a newspaper picture of Judge Gary, head of the United States Steel Corporation, on a shopping tour in Paris, and he was smiling pleasantly. It requires optimism of a high order to shop in Paris and smile at all—even a sickly grin.

President Deschanel is almost as unpopular in France as he had tried to start a brotherhood of man.

Michigan judges has just ruled that a man and his wife may serve on the same jury. Farewell to quick verdicts.

When a man buys a house and lot at present prices we may safely say he is living in the home of the brave.

HEALTH HINTS FOR TODAY

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
It is to many sufferers a painful question why one boy is so likely to be followed by a sore. Long ago Old Doctor Bunk intimated in his spring tonic or blood purifier almanac that a crop or succession of boils indicated "impure blood," the boils being presumably "corruption" coming to the surface. This explanation made a big hit with the credulous almanac readers, and moreover it helped sell many bottles of Doctor Bunk's concoctions, for once the victim began taking the junk each new bottle was evidence that the medicine was "driving the impurities out of the system." Of all the idiotic notions the grand old public has been bred on this one of medicine driving poison in or out or thru or under is the most absurd, tho it is still one of the biggest selling points the nostrum exploiters have.

We need not postulate any particular fault of the blood in order to account for boils, sores or crops of boils, or recurring boils. A boil is a little abscess, and an abscess is a collection of pus (commonly called matter) the contents left when the tissue substance breaks down and dies, together with the dead bodies of innumerable millions of scavenger cells (white blood corpuscles, phagocytes). These scavenger cells make their way thru the delicate walls of the microscopic capillary blood vessels and migrate thru the tissues to attack invading germs; if the scavenger cells or phagocytes win, they swallow or more properly wrap themselves around bunches of the germs and digest and destroy the invaders—which disappear in the bodies of the white cells. If the germs win, the white cells die, and become pus cells.

The germs responsible for the boil gain entrance thru some minute or unnoticed break of the skin, such as an abrasion produced by a rough collar band or the friction of some part of the clothing on the skin. The healthy, clean skin constantly harbors germs capable of setting up inflammation or pus-formation if they once find their way into the skin. Playing this role seems to arouse or increase the virulence of the germs.

One of the most difficult features in first aid for wounds is insistence on a strict policy of "hands off." It is human nature to touch the wound with the fingers, and this impulse is even stronger in the case of a boil. Now once the fingers touch a boil or the skin over a boil, the fingers are contaminated with pus-producing germs, and may readily convey the virulent or aroused germs to new fields, implanting them for the production of new boils. This, then, is the usual explanation for the second and all subsequent boils. There is no excuse for ever touching a boil.

Another peculiar thing about automobiles—we never know we haven't able to own one till we've got one. Somebody must be wearin' petticoats or they wouldn't be spendin' money advertisin' 'em.

CORK SHAKEN AS M'SWINEY SINKS

Irish City is Rocked by Violent Explosion

MAYOR PASSES BAD NIGHT

Severe Battles Rage in Streets of Belfast

CORK — (By Associated Press) — A violent explosion shook this city about 2 o'clock Monday morning. It was followed by the rattle of rifle fire in various parts of the business district. When the townspeople ventured forth later in the morning, after the curfew had closed, they found the main thoroughfare, Patrick street, littered with glass and the front of a large department store, which is said to employ a large number of young Sinn Féiners, completely wrecked as if by bombs.

Windows were smashed in the upper stories of almost every store in the vicinity.

MACSWINEY EXHAUSTED

LONDON — (By Associated Press) — Lord Maxwell, the Irish Sinn Féin leader, was in a very weak and exhausted condition Monday morning, said a bulletin issued by the Irish-Self-Determination League. This is the forty-sixth day of his hunger strike.

SEVERE STREET BATTLE

BELFAST — (By Associated Press) — The shooting by snipers and others which occurred in the center of Belfast Sunday night caused a panic among the crowds promenading on Royal-ave. The city's main artery, after church hours. The disturbance followed the shootings of Saturday night and early Sunday in which one policeman was killed and two others were wounded, followed by the assassination of three civilians in reprisal by parties of masked men.

The opening incident of Sunday night's disorders occurred when snipers in side streets of the San Fern quarters fired into the street. A tram car came into the line of fire and there was great alarm among the passengers crouched on the floor.

The rush from the side streets caused the crowd in Royal-ave to swell to large proportions and a stampede was created, when volleys suddenly rang out apparently from the Sinn Féin headquarters, the place rapidly increasing in volume. As the crowd raced along Royal-ave in wild disorder a number of shots were discharged, creating a panic about the Castle-st junction, the most crowded spot in the city with the arrival of police conditions quieted down.

BOMB IS EXPLODED

CORK — (By United Press) — A bomb exploded here early Monday and destroyed a small drink establishment. Police surrounded the place quickly and there was an exchange of rifle fire. Machine guns were brought into play, also.

BEST MARKSMEN SAID TO HAVE BLUE EYES

CLEVELAND O — If you aspire to fame as a marksman and have blue eyes you have the jump on the fellow with eyes of any other color, according to Troch, Yugoslav, who was one of the winners in the shoot at Antwerp. Troch has an international reputation as a marksman and participated in the Grand American Handicap Tournament here.

"Tests have proven that blue-eyed shooters can break more birds day in and day out," Troch said. "Blue eyes are keener and faster in following the clays as they sail from the traps."

The mere possession of blue eyes does not make an expert shooter, Troch said, and urged constant practice as the medium to perfection.

"It is just like driving an automobile or doing any other thing," he said. "The longer you are at it, and the more clays you take to follow the rules the better you are."

Troch's eyes are light blue.

STRIKE OF 15,000 COAL MINERS TO BE DECIDED AT MEETING LATE TODAY

BRIDGEPORT — Early indications Monday pointed to the materialization of the strike threat of approximately 15,000 coal miners in the eastern Ohio field. The strike was threatened several days ago by loaders who demanded pay for removing all stone instead of receiving payment for stone over 12 inches thick as provided in the contract.

Nine officials reported that an insignificant proportion of their workers reported for duty when the mines opened Monday. The headquarters of the operators' association issued a statement to the effect that the extent of the strike will not be determined until late in the day.

WILLIS IS OPPOSED

Labor Takes Stand Against G. O. P. Candidate for Senate

COLUMBUS — (By United Press) — Ohio State Federation of Labor's non-partisan committee, meeting here Sunday afternoon, with an Ohio miners' committee, approved political recommendations which relate the organization's neutrality on most of the state offices to be filled in November.

No preference is recommended in the gubernatorial race, both Vice-governor Democrat, and Harry L. Davis, Republican, candidates for governor, being held "satisfactory" to labor.

In the case of the United States senatorial race, the candidacy of Frank B. Willis, Republican, is opposed.

The committee's report suggests that the four members of the supreme court, two Democrats and two Republicans, who are up for re-election this fall, could be returned to that bench "without injury to labor."

CAPITAL MAID TO WED A ROOSEVELT

Miss Virginia Lee Minor. The engagement of Miss Virginia Lee Minor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tucker Sands, of Richmond and Washington to Robert B. Roosevelt, Jr., has been announced. He is the grandson of Robert B. Roosevelt, one time minister to Holland. Miss Minor made her debut in Washington.

HIGH SCHOOL SECURES ILLICIT STILL FOR USE IN ITS LABORATORY

STUEBENVILLE — A still is to be placed in the high school building here.

What is more—the police know about it. But no arrests are contemplated.

R. I. Ervin, superintendent of schools, requested W. D. Downer, a Justice of the Peace, to donate a still to the school one of the stills which are being confiscated in Jefferson county almost at the rate of one each day.

Superintendent Ervin explained that the high school chemistry laboratory is badly in need of a still.

It is the practice to junk the captured stills. Justice Downer, however, promised to comply with Superintendent Ervin's request.

MINERS WORK OVERTIME FOR UPLIFT MONEY

BERLIN — (By Mail) — The Waldenburg coal miners have decided to make a monthly overwork during one year and devote the proceeds thereof to welfare purposes. The sum of about three million marks thus raised will be applied to the construction of forest rest homes for children.

They further agreed to make another shift once per year using 250,000 marks which will be raised for the construction of the same kind of homes for the workmen themselves.

CLAIM NEAR BEER CONTAINS ETHER

Is What Makes Drinkers Quarrel—Some Police Say

CINCINNATI — Cincinnati police are worried. It's all because of prohibition.

In the old days when 16 ounce schooners running over with honest to goodness beer could be had at most any bar for five cents, the drunkards arrested were a hilarious lot of citizens. They often sang themselves to sleep in the jail house, and promised to remember the Turnkey in their will.

It's a different story these days. The number of drunks arrested has decreased approximately 75 per cent; since the advent of the 18th amendment, those arrested are a badly disappointed lot. Nowadays the drunken man scurries with fear when brought before the registering officer. Often he must be carried to his cell. He beats up on the steel bars and shouts defiance to the aforesaid well-loved world. He does not sing. He shouts curses upon the ancestors and progeny of the Turnkey. He falls asleep howling imprecations.

What is it that has taken the good nature out of drunkenness? Is a question the policemen continually are asking one another.

Rumors have gone the rounds that the "beer" being sold in Cincinnati has been treated with ether. The ether is supposed to put the "kick" in the "beer" which makes the drinkers rather stupefied, gives them an awful headache and a disordered stomach the next day. It is also rumored that smuggled whiskey from Canada has been reduced in alcoholic content to about 50 percent and then treated with ether to conceal the reduced "kick" percentage.

Federal authorities, however, scout the story. Dr. Leo Forst, chief federal chemist, says that none of the beer he has analyzed has shown any trace of ether and he doubts that ether is being used by anyone. He says it would not be soluble in the watery concoction one-half of one percent alcohol beer, but says it might be soluble in whiskey.

Either or no ether, policemen still maintain that there is something in the stuff drunks these days that makes them bad men.

FAMOUS ASTOR PALACE, LONDON, TO BE SOLD

LONDON — The Astor Office on the Thames Embankment is to be sold by auction. The office is described as a treasure palace costing 250,000 pounds or (about $1,250,000) in which a multi-millionaire kept his business records and at the same time allowed his artistic tastes full scope.

Built of grey stone in the Tudor style, it is almost as impregnable as a fortress. One of the most interesting apartments in the building is the bedroom prepared for the late Lord Astor. For many years he invariably used this when he was in London. The late Lord Astor managed his American estates from the office.

MEN AND MATTERS

N. W. Basinger, Bluffton, Democratic candidate for County Treasurer, a visitor in Lima Monday, stated that considerable interest is attaching to plans for a Democratic rally to be held in Bluffton soon. A straw vote taken at Bluffton indicates that the village will go strongly Democratic.

Arthur F. Lindemann, Delphos, Democratic candidate for Probate Judge of Allen-co., was a caller in Lima Monday, bringing with him a message of optimism from the western part of the country concerning prospects of election results.

M. E. Cowan, 716 S. Elizabeth-st., is elated over receipt of information from Canton Ohio, that Rufus Red Belgian Hares he exhibited at the Stark-co fair took first prizes for senior and junior doe. The senior doe took first premium at the recent state fair, at Columbus. There were 300 in competition at Canton and 700 at Columbus.

A civil service examination of applicants for the position of clerk at the Lima postoffice will be held October 2. The entrance salary is $1,400 per year, with an automatic increase of $100 per year until the maximum of $1,800 is reached. Further information in regard to the examination may be obtained from Clerk C. F. Walther at the Lima office.

"From now on until the election," President L. Earl Ludwig of the Allen-co. Cor club stated Monday, "a meeting of the members of the club will be held at the court house every Friday evening, at 7:30 o'clock."

Democrats of Sugar Creek-twp., are arranging for a big get-together meeting to be held soon, the date not having been announced. Judge William Klingler is to be the speaker. President L. Earl Ludwig of the Cor club announced Monday.

NO BIDS RECEIVED

Big Block of City Bonds Not in Demand

When offered for sale the second time Monday noon, no bids were received on $254,000 worth of notes issued by the city for the construction of the Central-ave relief sewer, according to City Auditor David L. Rupert.

When offered for sale several weeks ago only one bid was received, and it, according to Rupert, contained requirements which made it impossible for the city to accept. It was thought that the market had improved sufficiently that the paper would sell Monday.

Rupert said the work on the sewer will in all probability be continued under the present arrangement with the contractor to accept the city's short time note in payment as estimates are presented. A temporary agreement at this effect was entered into after the bonds failed to sell when first offered.

RUN ON BANK IS HALTED BY LAW

Boston Institution Invokes Act to Protect Depositors

BOSTON — (By Associated Press) — Several hundred persons gathered outside the offices of the Tremont Trust Company here Monday when the doors were opened at 8:45 a. m., 15 minutes before the usual hour, and lines quickly formed at the several paying tellers' windows.

After withdrawals had been going on steadily for nearly an hour, with the crowds constantly increasing, the bank officials announced that the law permitting a bank to require 90 days' notice for withdrawals from the savings departments would be invoked forthwith "for the protection of the depositors." The regulation would be withdrawn "as soon as the public calmed itself," it was announced.

"We have plenty of money to pay everybody," officials said, "and were prepared to do so this morning but the crowd became so large that it was impossible to handle them and we invoked the law for the protection of the depositors, not for our own protection."

Upon opening for business Monday, the Fidelity Trust Company served notice on depositors that it would take advantage of the law permitting it to require 90 days' notice of withdrawal from its savings department.

It was stated at the bank that this was done upon the direction of Joseph C. Allen, state bank commissioner. At his office it was said that the taking of this action was optional with the banks.

SHORTAGE OF ICE

Breakdown in Plant Cuts Supply in Lima Monday

A breakdown in the plant of the Crystal Ice Co. Monday threatened the city with a near ice famine. The break, however, will be repaired, according to word from the office of the company in time to make deliveries Tuesday.

There has been an exceptional demand for ice during the past week or so, it was declared because of the warm weather, thus cutting down the reserve.

The plant has hardly been able to keep up with the heavy demand, it was declared.

YOUR DOCTOR KNOWS WHAT "VITAMINES" ARE—BUT DO YOU?

With Plenty in Your Body You Can Be Strong and Well—Without Them You Remain Weak, Nervous and Run-down, Says Physician. Explains How These Life-giving Substances of Nature—Lost in the Cooking of Most Everyday Food—Have Been Concentrated and Combined with Other Health-Building Elements to Help Increase Energy, Vitality and Power.

"In the steam that rises from the cooking of your foods are the escaping 'vitamines'—those wondrous substances of nature which give you life itself—for they mean life—they mean health—they mean power. The less of them you get into your body the weaker and more run-down you are, while with plenty you may well expect to become infinitely stronger and far more vigorous. Yet until recently science knew but little of these mysterious substances, and Physicians, never dreaming of the necessity for vitamins, were often at a loss to account for the failure of the tonics, drugs and diets they prescribed." This is the statement of John J. Rudolph, a former Health Commissioner, late of New York Hospital Staffs and a graduate of the University of Baltimore.

Continuing Dr. Rudolph said: "It is safe to say that nine out of every ten people in this country today are weak and probably to far later off physically and mentally if they would get more of these life-giving 'vitamines' into their systems. In countless disorders associated with weakness—such as lack of energy, loss of weight, nervous troubles, sallow skin and a general run-down condition, the astonishing health-building power of vitamins has been clearly demonstrated by medical research. But it is only the introduction of a tablet combining the concentrated vitamins with other health-building elements in the form known to druggists as VITAMON which has made it possible for you to get the benefits which this places within their reach."

But no rapid or so pronounced and so amazing are the results. I do not believe there is anything whatsoever to which this discovery can be compared. Not until you have taken VITAMON yourself and watched its effects in your own body can you form any idea of the vast difference it may make in your health, strength, mental vigor and appearance. VITAMON may be taken with benefit by either men or women, at all seasons and surprising results are produced in many cases within a remarkably short space of time.

Note: The subject of vitamins was raised about a year ago at a scientific conference at the University of Baltimore. The subject was discussed by Dr. Cassel, a leading authority on the subject, who stated that a necessary element to health, strength, physical development and the preservation of life, the vitamins, were being lost in the cooking of food. The subject was also discussed by the investigations of the famous Lister Institute of London, and in this country by such celebrated authorities as Dr. Philip B. Hawk of the Jefferson Medical College of Philadelphia, Dr. Levine of the New York Rockefeller Institute, Osborne and Mendel of Yale and E. J. McCollum of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore.

So confident are the manufacturers of the benefits to be derived from VITAMON that they make the following unconditional guarantee:

If after using VITAMON you are not entirely satisfied with the results and are not convinced that it has been worth to you for more than you paid for it, the trial will cost you nothing. Nothing. VITAMON may now be obtained in this city from all leading druggists such as Hinters, Red Cross, Cunningham, David's Central Drug, Interphase Drug.

FROCK SHOWS NEW HINDU TRIMMING

BY ELOISE

Have you noticed the popularity of the new Hindu trimming? You probably have, but do not recognize it by its new name. It is our friend, Hindu, with a slightly different tone and a brand new name. It is being used very effectively and profusely on the new navy and black serge and satin frocks. Often being of it are employed on pinks and sleeves and many overblouses and vests are made of Hindu georgette, silk or chiffon. The most usual trimming, however, is Hindu embroidery or beading.

Here is a very pretty frock made of navy blue pique with Hindu silk band trimming both waist and skirt. Many rows of the band outline a panel on the skirt, but the blouse is covered with a rather intricate design. This blouse is made with kimono sleeves which reach but a few inches below the elbow. A narrow belt of the material marks the waistline.

A Hindu colored hat with a silver ornament completes the outfit, which is suitable for street wear with or without a fur or wrap.

Mrs. P. Pearson, and son, Alec Pearson, Appleton, Kent, England, who have been the guests of her daughter, Mrs. A. W. Whistley, S. Cole-st., will leave Friday for Montreal where they will spend several days with friends. They then go to Quebec to sail October 6th for their home.

Mrs. Edward Liberty Well Known Woman of Conemaugh Speaks

Tells An Interesting Story of Restored Health and Vigor.
Gives all the Credit to Nerv-Worth

"I was in a very nervous condition," said Mrs. Liberty, who resides at 155 Pleasant, Frankfort, Conemaugh, Pa. "I tossed around all night, not being able to get restful sleep, and when I got up in the morning, I had that tired, ragged, run down feeling. I also suffered terribly with sick headaches, and a poor appetite, due to stomach and digestive troubles, and this caused me to be very weak. It seemed that I was unable to get anything to relieve me. Finally I purchased a bottle of Nerv-Worth, and took it regularly, and now I'm a different woman, for I am no longer nervous or worn out. I am feeling vigorous and gaining strength, and since my digestion is good I have a splendid appetite. I sleep like a young girl, and get up in the morning feeling strong and ready for my duties. I think Nerv-Worth is worth its weight in gold, as it certainly brought me back to good health. The above statement is one of exceptional value, inasmuch as it cites a particular case telling of the troubles from which millions of women suffer. Such cases readily give way to Nerv-Worth, and the woman takes it soon finds as this one woman found, that she feels like a young girl. Give this preparation a trial, and if your first trial bottle does not help you, your money will be refunded. Be sure to get the genuine in the round bottle, price $1.25 plus tax. Sold on a money back guarantee by Butters; The Central; Everbodies; Hunters and all leading druggists everywhere.

THE ROOM WITH THE TASSELS

By Carolyn Wells

STEBBINS OWNS UP

"Now, Mr. Stebbins, you'd better speak out in meeting and tell all you know. Tell your Auntie Zizi just how naughty you was, and how you managed it. C'mon, now—'put it all out!'"

Zizi sat on the edge of a chair in Elijah Stebbins' office, and leaned toward him, her eerie little face contorting near his, and her smile such as would charm the birds off the trees.

Stebbins looked at her, and shifted uneasily in his chair.

"I didn't do nothin' wrong," he began, "I played a silly trick or two but it was only in fun. When I see they took it seriously I quit." "Yes, I know all that," and the impatient visitor shook a prompting little forefinger at him. "I know everything you said and did to scare those people into fits, and when they wouldn't scare, but just lapped up your spook rackets, you quit, as you say, and then—they took up the business themselves."

"You sure of that?" "I am, certain. Also, I know who did it. What I'm after is to find out a few missing ways and means. Now, you were a tricky Puck, weren't you, when you moved the old battered candlestick that first night? And it did no harm, that I admit. It roused their curiosity, and started the spook ball rolling. Then, as a ghost, you appeared to Mr. Bruce, didn't you?"

"Well, I—did," Stebbins gradually confessed, forced by the compelling black eyes. "I just wrop a shawl over my head, and spooked in. But nobody believed his yarn about it."

"No; they thought Mr. Bruce made up the story, because he had said he would trick them if he could."

"Yes, I know that," agreed Stebbins, eagerly. "Then once again, I played spook, and that time," Miss Carnforth was a sleeper in that haunted room. You see, I expected it would be one of the men, and when I see a woman—"

"You were more scared than she was!" Zizi leaned eagerly forward, almost spilling off her chair, in her interested attention.

"I believe I was," said Stebbins, solemnly. "Anyways, I went out, wavin' never to do any more spook work—and I never did."

"All that tallies with my discoveries so far," Zizi nodded. "Now what I'm after, is the way you got in."

"That's a secret," and Stebbins squirmed uneasily.

PATTERN FOR TODAY

A SIMPLE ATTRACTIVE MODEL IN ONE-PIECE STYLE

Pattern 3352 was used for this pretty style. It is cut in 3 sizes: 12, 14 and 16 years. A 14 year size will require 2 yards of 38 inch material.

As here portrayed, taffeta was used with embroidery in floss. This is a good style for wash fabrics, woolsens, cloth, combinations of rayon, and lingerie fabrics, also crepe de chine, and net.

TOO WEAK TO DO ANYTHING

A Serious Feminine Illness Remedied By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Casco, Wis.—"After the birth of each of my children I had displacement and was so weak I couldn't do anything. I found a book about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So I thought I would try it, and after taking it I soon felt better. That was fifteen years ago and I have felt well ever since except that I had a slight attack of the trouble some time ago and took some more of your Compound and was soon all right again. I always recommend your medicine and you may publish my testimonial for the benefit of other women."—Mrs. JULES BESO, JR., R. 1, Box 90, Casco, Wis.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and today holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills in this country, and thousands of voluntary testimonials prove this fact.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

"A secret entrance, you mean?"

"Yes'm. And how to get into it is a secret that has been known only to the owner of that house, for generations—ever since it was built. Whenever anybody bought it or inherited it, he was told the secret entrance, and sworn never to tell of it."

"But, look here, Mr. Stebbins, your entrance to that house, or whatever it is, was seen by somebody. That somebody used it afterward, and played ghost, and committed crime, and even stole the body of that poor little girl away from you. One carried me, and if you please, out by that secret passage, and tried to drown me! Now, do you think it is your duty to remain silent, because of that old oath of secrecy?"

Zizi had risen and stood over him like a small but terrifying avenging angel. If she had brandished a flaming sword, it could not have impressed Mr. Stebbins more than her burning black eyes and gleam.

Her long thin arms outspread, her slim body poised on tiptoe and her accusing, condemning face was white and strained in its earnestness.

"No, Ma'am, I don't!" and Stebbins rose, too. "Come with me, Miss; I'll go with you and I'll show you that secret entrance, nobody could ever find it alone, and I'll own up to all I did, wrong or right. I'm no murderer, and I'll not put a straw in the way of findin' out who is."

In triumph, Zizi entered the hall of Black Aspens, leading her captive. Tho it must be admitted Stebbins came willingly.

"This here's my house," he said, with an air of importance, "and so far I'm responsible for queer goin's on. I'll confess, and after that, you, Mr. Detective, can find out who carried on the hocus-pocus."

"Thank you, Mr. Stebbins," said Pennington Wise, gravely. "Suppose we ask all the members of the household to be present at your revelations."

"Not the Thorpes, or them servant maids, if you please. They ain't none of 'em implicated, and why let 'em know what's goin' on?"

"That's right," said Zizi. "Whatever we learn may not be entirely given to the public. Just call the rest of the party, Pen."

As it happened, the men were all in the hall talking with Wise when Stebbins arrived, so Zizi went in search of the women. They were congregated in Milly's room, and as they came downstairs, the detective noted their expressions, a favorite method with him of gaining information.

Milly's round little face was so red and swollen with weeping, that it excited only compassion in any observer. Norma, too, was sad and frightened-looking, but Eva lips were curved in disdainful smiles.

"As we're all as one in our search for the criminal," Wise began, "I think it best that we should hear, all together, Mr. Stebbins' explanation of how this house may be entered from outside, tho apparently locked and bolted against intrusion."

"I should think, Mr. Wise," said Eva, scornfully, "that if there were such possibility, your detective genius ought to have discovered it."

"He couldn't," said Stebbins, simply. "It ain't a means that any one could discover."

"Then how did the criminal find it out?" demanded Eva.

"He must have seen me come in by it," Stebbins replied. "Nobody could ever suspect the real way."

"Oh, come now," said Zizi. "Mr. Wise does know. He is not at all vain glorious, or he would tell you himself. But he prefers to let Mr. Stebbins tell."

"It that so, Mr. Wise?" asked you, have discovered the secret entrance. I wish you would say so. I feel chagrined that my own reasoning powers have given me no hint."

"I have satisfied myself of the means and the location of the entrance," Wise returned, "but I have not examined the place definitely enough to find the hidden spring that must be there."

"You know that much?" cried Stebbins, in amazement.

"Yes, largely by elimination. There are no hollow walls, no false locks, no sliding panels,—it seems to me there is no logical hidden entrance, but thru one of those columns," and he pointed to the great bronze columns that flanked the doorway.

"By Golly!" and Stebbins stared at the speaker. "You've hit it, eh?"

"I could, of course, find the secret spring, which must be concealed in the ornamentation," Wise went on, "but I've hesitated to draw attention to the columns by working at them. Suppose we let Mr. Stebbins tell us, and not try to find what we know must be cleverly concealed."

"But wait a minute," pleaded Hardwick. "I'm terribly interested in this proof of Mr. Wise's perspicacity. You needn't touch the columns, but tell us your theory of its use."

Is there a sliding opening in the solid bronze?"

"I think not," and Wise smiled. "I may be all wrong. I really haven't looked closely, but my belief is that one or both of those great columns, which, as you see, are half in and half out of the hall, must swing round, revolve, you know,—and open a way out."

"Exactly right!" and Stebbins sprang toward the column that was on the side of the hall toward the Room with the Tassels. "That's the secret. Nobody ever so much as dreamed of it before! You merely press this acorn in this bronze oak wreath, half-way up, press it pretty hard, and the column swings round."

DIARY OF AN ENGAGED GIRL

LINDSEY MEETS A POLISH COUNT, WHO IS IMMEDIATELY SMITTEN

Paris is filled with foreigners—more so than with Parisians. All nations and races of the earth meet and play in this gleaming city, and all tongues are spoken.

It is a sight to promenade up the Grand Boulevards in the afternoon and catch the crowds in their festive spirits, and on their way to their afternoon appetitive, which is a most solemn rite with the real Parisian.

This afternoon Cousin Cecil took me once more over to the Latin quarter and showed me around. We started at the Luxembourg gardens and made our way slowly to the Odéon theater, and in the shadows of this noble old building we feasted our eyes on the many book stalls that nestle close to its gray sides, and under its many arches. Such books! Every age and variety to be found here—very much like the places one finds in Charing Cross in London. We walked by the historic Hotel Cornelle, close by, and peered into its many windows, as tho at any moment we might catch a glimpse of some of the Minis and Arnands that at one time lived there; or even Henri Murger himself might emerge, in the spirit, and smile at our most modern curiosity. For in this old Hotel Cornelle most of the famous French writers and artists have lived and had their being, at some time in their lives. And history has been made within its walls.

On almost any street corner I expected to be greeted by "Tribly," Tribly swinging along as only she could swing, and smiling happily at the whole of the artist world that paid her homage. But alas! She never appeared, save in the form of some large and full-blown English maid, on her way to "do" the sights of the quarter! And such a British maiden, for all her racy cheeks and "swing" is as far removed from Miss Tribly O'Farrell as the north pole is from the south pole. Tribly had a soul.

Up the Boulevard Montparnasse we trudged once more, and met many gay students linked arm in arm, and singing for joy because the work of the day was over, and the revels of the night, a Paris night, were about to commence! Happy young things, and care-free—caps a-tilt and ties a-waving in the autumn breeze, as lightly as their laughter, to the winds of heaven.

We reached the Cafe Rotonde, so dear to the hearts of the artists of all nations. It nestles close to the Metro station at the top of the Boulevard Montparnasse and the Rue Vavin, and its arms and doors are always open wide to the strangers within its gates—that's why we all love it so. Not far away—just around the corner—lies the Boulevard Raspail—and across the way from its front door is the Dome cafe—and Thomas' restaurant, patronized by the American clientele of this section of Paris.

Crowds of students were seated round the tables outside the Rotonde when we arrived there, but we finally found a place, and then sat us down to thoroughly enjoy everything.

I was very much impressed with Cecil's man-of-the-world air, in this part of the city, for without doubt he is at home here and truly a "bon vivant." He ordered our vermouth and cassis, which is a typical Parisian drink, and most delicious, as tho he had been born and bred right in that corner of the world! Had to smile, and what a goody-goody drink this one is—the cassis is the juice of plums, and this mixed with vermouth is simply too delicate for words.

We had not been seated long before several friends of Cecil's swung by, and of course he made them find chairs and draw up to our table. One only I remember with a pleasant emotion, and he was a very tall, very blonde and very romantic Polish count—Antoine de Chirin—very, very cavalier and very much smitten with little me, if you please. Just think what a commotion that would create in my circles in New York—the idea of a Polish count being at my feet, so to speak!

What butter is good the year around?

YOU'LL answer immediately that there is just one kind—fresh creamery butter! But there is another butter spread that is just as good as creamery butter all the time; that tastes exactly the same, that is just as wholesome, just as digestible, and just as valuable in food elements. And this other product does not cost as much as creamery butter, although it has all of the qualities of creamery butter.

It is Golmar—a vegetable product, which never varies in wholesomeness, deliciousness, or cleanliness. It is churned daily from choice nut oils and pasteurized milk, and keeps fresh amply long enough for a small family to use a pound.

Use it as you now use creamery butter. Make it prove its quality. You simply cannot tell any difference. You will certainly use Golmar regularly when you know how good, how fresh, how delicious it is.

Go to your dealer today and get a package of Golmar. Try it—as we suggest elsewhere on this page—and see for yourself that it really is as good as fresh creamery butter. Surely, if this is true then you wish to know it, because you can save considerably on your butter bill by using Golmar.

And if Golmar doesn't satisfy you—if you don't say that it is as good as any creamery butter you ever served—then your money will be cheerfully refunded.

The Famous Golmar Test
Example No. 6
Golmar on Rye Bread

PLACE a pat of Golmar and one of creamery butter side by side. Make one sandwich with the creamery butter and another with the Golmar. Then take a bite of one and a bite of the other. Taste them critically. We challenge you to tell which is Golmar. Golmar is the equal of and is equalled only by fresh creamery butter.

The same coloring matter used in creamery butter is supplied with Golmar so you can color it at home and save the tax of 10 cents per pound which the Government would collect if Golmar were colored by the makers.

It Isn't Work That Wears You Out!

Hard work never killed anybody. But hard work, with irregular hours, neglect of rest, recreation and exercise does weaken the kidneys and keeps one tired, miserable and half sick. If your back aches—if you have headaches, dizziness and urinary disorders—don't wait. Get back to simple, sensible habits. Help the weakened kidneys before dropsy, gravel or Bright's disease attacks you. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. They have helped thousands and are used the world over. Ask your neighbor.

LIMA EXPERIENCE

J. J. Wright, retired farmer, 133 E. Kibby St., says: "My kidneys were out of order and there was a steady, dull ache across my back which occasionally changed to sharp, cutting pains. I couldn't get much rest at night because I had to get up often to pass the kidney secretions and they burned in passage. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and got a box. I used Doan's about ten days and they put my kidneys in good shape."

PENNANT PRACTICALLY CINCHED FOR BROOKLYN—CLEVELAND RETAINS FIRST IN AMERICAN LEAGUE BY DEFEATING ST. LOUIS BROWNS

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD CHANGE

SUNDAY'S HERO—Aaron Ward, The Yankees third baseman batted out two homers and accounted for 10 runs that beat the Senators 9 to 6.

Napier, the Red youngster, pulled the champions out of a six-game losing streak, and held third place by beating the Pirates 8 to 6.

Rube Marquard blocked the pennant rush of his old team-mates when Brooklyn defeated the Giants 4 to 2 and put the Robins within one game of the pennant.

The Browns batted Caldwell out of the box and scored five runs in the first inning. This stopped them, however, and the Indians won 7 to 5.

TRIBE HOLDS LEAD BY HALF GAME; DOPED FOR VICTORY

NEW YORK—Brooklyn stands Monday an almost sure pennant winner in the National League. Wilbert Robinson's "funny" Dodgers have to win only one game out of the remaining four on their schedule to carry the National colors into the world's series. The task seems easy.

With only one victory out of the next four games, the club of Squire Ebbets will finish with 91 games won and 63 lost for a percentage of .591. The best the Giants can do with a clean sweep of their remaining six games would be 90 won and 64 lost for a percentage of .581.

If the Dodgers lose all four starts the Giants can do no better than finish in a tie with their town mates.

The situation remains unchanged in the American League, with one-half game separating the Indians and the White Sox. The Indians have seven games to go and the Sox are within four games of the finish. The outcome is doubtful, but Speaker's Indians are the selection of most of the dopsters.

The Giants played the most consistent ball in the older organization last week, winning five out of their six starts. They gained very little on the Dodgers, however, as Robby's club won three out of their four games. As a result of only one victory in nine games, the Reds are finding themselves in a battle with the Pirates for third place.

The White Sox closed in on the leading Indians by a fraction. Gleason won five out of six starts, while the Indians were able to get but four out of their six games.

If the White Sox win all their four remaining games, they would finish with 55 won and 56 lost for a percentage of .536. To beat them out for the pennant Speaker would face the task of winning five out of his seven games.

BASEBALL QUIZZ MAY BE EXTENDED

CHICAGO—The baseball scandal will be laid bare this week, with the summoning before the Cook-co special grand jury investigating alleged "fixed" ball games. When it summons before it numerous major league officials, ball players and officials, according to Assistant State's Attorney Regipole, in charge of the grand jury.

According to H. H. Brigham, foreman, convincing evidence of crookedness has been obtained and indictments are expected later in the week.

MAJORS ENTER FINAL WEEK OF SEASON

NEW YORK.—The last week of the major league pennant race began today with Cleveland and Chicago running almost neck and neck in the American League, while Brooklyn's victory over New York Sunday makes it necessary for the Superbas to win only one more game to assure their first place.

The Cleveland Americans retained their half game advantage over Chicago when both won games today. Cleveland was extended by St. Louis, using three pitchers in order to win, and Chicago won by a good margin over Detroit.

The Indians have seven games to play, three with St. Louis and four with Detroit, while the White Sox have only four contests, one with Detroit and three with St. Louis. To keep in first place, Cleveland must win one more game than Chicago does. New York, which has three games to play with Philadelphia, failed last week when it came to the final spurt. The Yankees won today from Washington but are three games behind Cleveland.

In the National League Brooklyn increased its lead to five games and has only to win one of its three games with New York or the game with Boston next Sunday. One defeat will put the Giants out of the race and the best they can do by winning all their six games while Brooklyn is losing its four, would be to tie. The Cincinnati World's Champions were eliminated last week is a contender for first place. The Reds battled weekly and dropped six successive games before winning today over Pittsburgh. The Pirates are striving to wrest third place from Cincinnati. Philadelphia is trying to take advantage of Boston's slump and climb out of last place.

The week's record in each league or games played, won and lost, with runs, hits, errors, men left on bases, and runs scored by opponents, including games of Saturday, September 5 is as follows:

COMMISSION MEETS TO PLAN WORLD'S SERIES SKED

CHICAGO—The national baseball commission met Monday to draft schedules for the world's series, and attend to other business details. While it is not known definitely who the winners of the pennant will be in either league, the commission will draw up two sets of schedules, so that should either Cleveland or Chicago win in the American League, and Brooklyn or New York win in the National, there will be a schedule of games already prepared.

MAIN HOLDS PAULDING TO ONE RUN WHILE LIMA SCORES THIRTEEN

ELI Main's appearance on the slab for the Lima Independents Sunday at the Murphy street diamond seemed like a signal for the Paulding baseball team to go to pieces.

They failed to show the form that brought them two wins over the Lima outfit out of three games previously played with the Independents, and humbly submitted Sunday to an overwhelming defeat. The score gave them the short end of a 13 to 1 count.

And the single counter that Harry Clark's outfit scored was a gift, pure and simple. Main, who for three innings had pitched hitless ball, and then had held the visitors to no runs when they did manage to get two safe bingles in the fourth, loosened considerably in the fifth and walked a man with the bases full thus dominating Paulding its only run.

But that didn't bother the Three Eye league hurler in the least. He recovered and pitched shutout ball for the rest of the game, while the Independents, on a batting rampage, piled up score after score.

COSTELLO GETS HOMER

Mike Costello, the classy Lima centerfielder shed a ray of sunshine over the dejected but few innings when he lead off in the seventh inning for a smash that netted him four bases. Costello's speed made his long hit to left field a regular thriller. He slid to the plate just ahead of the throw in.

Marty Neu and Wentz were also lamming the old pill. They gleamed a three bagger each. Neu's triple came in the first inning with two men on. It started Lima towards victory.

Main, who last year pitched for Lima under the nom de plume of Pierce, allowed but four hits and struck out an even dozen men. His appearance on the diamond was welcomed by his Lima followers by a regular ovation.

The series now stands tied with each team ordered with two games. The one remaining games of the five game series will decide the champions of the surrounding counties.

USE FOUR PITCHERS

Harry Clark used four pitchers in Sunday's battle, including himself. Hall started the game, but was unable to handle the Lima swatmen. They have evidently profited by experience and have learned how to handle his deliveries. Williamson was next sent on the slab, but he failed to prove effective. Next, Clark borrowed Marhop off the Lima bench, but Nick too, was unable to do anything with the Lima hitters, two men.

CANTON MAN SLAIN

CANTON, O.—Domick Santillo, 32, was murdered here Sunday night. His body with three bullet wounds in the back was found early Monday morning in a field in the southeast end within a few yards of the spot where Comas Martorano was stabbed to death a week ago. The victim's coat was burned by powder from the gun used by the murderer. Police learned Santillo had quarreled Sunday night with two men.

JINX GETS SEMI PRO STARS

CANTON—Sunday proved to be an unlucky day for several members of the Sprankle family, living in Waynesburg, near here, and equally unfortunate for the Waynesburg baseball team. In a game with East Sparta on the home diamond, Ben Sprankle's spikes caught in first base, causing him to fall and break his leg.

Several innings later, his brother, Roy Sprankle, stepped into a hole while running for a fly ball, fell and sustained several broken ribs and internal injuries. The visiting team captured the game by a score of 8 to 5.

RAISING THE LIMIT

MANY a smoker thought the limit had been reached. Could cigarettes be improved? We thought so. We knew there was room at the top for a better cigarette. But it would have to be something entirely new.

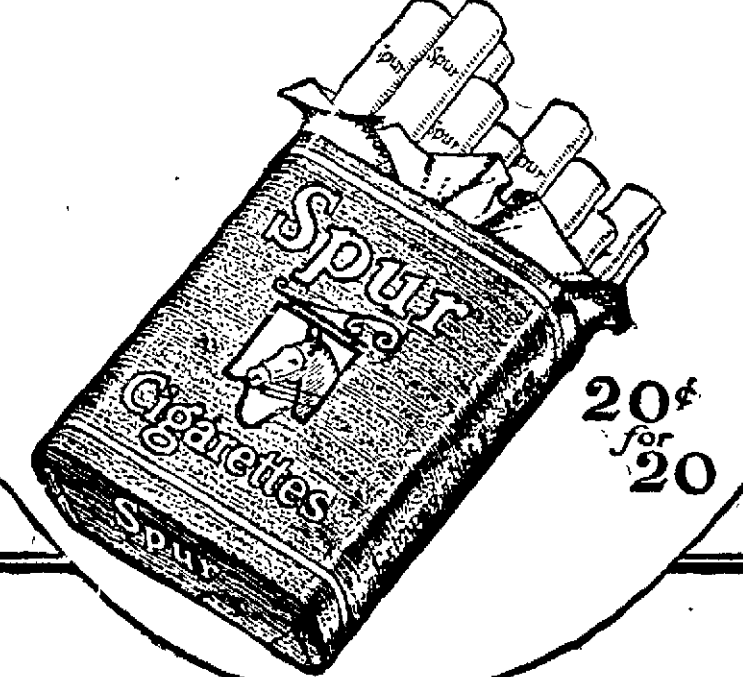

And it is—it's Spur.

An original blend that makes the rich Oriental tobaccos richer by pleasing combination with Burley and other home-grown tobaccos. A new method of rolling the satiny imported paper by crimping, instead of pasting. A smart "brown-and-silver" package, with triple wrapping to keep Spurs fresh.

Spur offers you tip-top quality at rock-bottom price. What do you say?

"The Jack-Knife Man" Declared
Wholesome Play

DOLLARS AND THE WOMAN

Alice Joyce Plays Lead and Makes Hit

(By ESTHER WAGNER)
A really worth-while film is "The Jack-Knife Man," by Ellis Parker Butler. There are no auspicious scenes and great moments, but it's just human and wholesome all the way thru.
The story runs like this: Peter Lane's Aunt Jane was a regular weeping willow. Anything and everything brought on a flood of weeps, and finally her tears drove the distracted Peter from home, to take up his abode in a shanty boat on the Mississippi. By whittling wooden spoons with his trusty jack-knife, he soon developed a meager demand for his wares.
Came a woman and a little crippled boy of four, seeking refuge from the storm. There was only one thing for the good-hearted Peter to do and that was, give them shelter. He made them comfortable and pawned his alarm clock to get food for his uninvited guests.
When the mother died, Peter held himself responsible for little Buddy, and then began the fight to keep him out of the hands of Briggles, of the home-finding society.
Thru hard work and a stroke of good luck, an interesting fate awaits Peter, and this includes Buddy, Susie, his little sister, and the Widow Potter, who for many years has had dark matrimonial designs on Peter.
King Vidor has infused a unique charm and originality into the picture, and his beautiful wife, Florence Vidor, does splendid work. She looks enough like Alice Joyce to be her sister, and works in the same tragic Joyce manner. But the real hit of the picture is little Bobby Kelso, cast as Buddy, the poor little orphan. He only three and a half years old, Bobby promises to become one of the best child actors in the business.
This quaint and homely tale is unusually well-filmed and the characters of the shanty-boat dwellers are remarkably fine.

The picture is showing at the Regent.

"Dollars and the Woman"

THE name of Alice Joyce is usually linked with big things, and her current production "Dollars and the Woman," while not her best picture, is a really big picture.

Robert Gordon, who plays opposite Miss Joyce, seems absurdly young for the part, but he acts with such sincerity and pronounced good nature that one can forgive him for being young. Miss Joyce is her usual self, and gives a most finished performance.

The story deals with the life of a young married couple, of moderate circumstances. When they find their money is about gone, the wife becomes the manager, and together they economize. Not that they think it is a lark, but they try to, and for a time are happy.

An invention the husband is working on is their only hope, but it takes all their savings to get it demonstrated, and wife was hoarding that little fund for a "purpose." But no sacrifice is too much for her beloved husband and he sets off for California. Yes, he returns a rich man, but accuses his wife of being unfaithful. After all her scrimping and loyalty!

Be assured that everything comes out all right, however, and they are reunited.

Miss Joyce, as the hardworking little wife, has a role that is new, to her, and while she handles it well, she is much nicer in her old kind of plays, wherein she can wear beautiful clothes and lord it over the rest of the ladies in the cast. "Dollars and the Woman" should prove interesting to most of us, and as a while, it does.

The Lyric is featuring the production.

Mother (proudly): And so you got to the head of the parade this today!

A little girl was asked upon her return home how she liked the singing of the congregation in the church.

I liked it very much indeed, answered the girl, although the people and it was loud.

All the people and it was loud, what do you mean my dear?

Oh, it was so loud I heard the people playing. And I have never upon us miser little fingers.

Slowly and patiently the youth allowed his father that a girl was neglected.

Neglect Keeps Doctors Busy

An eminent physician once said: "Were it not for people who neglect the early symptoms of disease, many doctors would have to find a new way to make a living."

Every winter doctors are busy calling on cramps and pneumonia patients because the first symptoms of colds were neglected.

Nerves Steady As 8 Day Clock

Never knew what a full night's rest was, rolling and tossing from one side of the bed to the other. Now she sleeps sound and awakes feeling refreshed, since taking Dico.

"I used to dread going to bed because it meant a full night's rest and dreams and rising next morning more tired than the night before," said Mrs. Stella Guss of Brown, Ohio.

My stomach gave me much distress by filling up with gas, after meals and during the day. I was constipated daily, had no appetite and was aching pains in my back right over my kidneys. Dr. Dico's pills often attacked me. I had a bitter taste in my mouth and my tongue was coated most all the time.

Dico has proven to be a wonderful remedy for such troubles as I had, for I'm feeling better than in many a day. I strongly recommend Dico as a tonic for women.

Dico is made from the juices of 32 different herbs, roots, barks and leaves, which act directly on the stomach, liver, kidneys, bladder and the blood, and tends to remove constipation, headaches, rheumatism, catarrh, biliousness, dizzy spells, heart fluttering, gas on the stomach and other troubles.

All druggists now sell Dico and it is being especially introduced in Lima by Baldwin's Central Drug Store, corner Main and High-sts.

On entering her room, she found an immense glass roof which extended across the building. She, for a moment, was in the dust all w. quiet.

Half buried in the ground, she found, motionless objects, broken together with iron chains.

The whole, she found, was a mystery. He could not continue it.

Resinol
Keeps the little folks comfortable and happy

Don't neglect the little one's chafed skin or the pimpled rash or eczema, for children's skin is so sensitive, and these minor troubles may result in stubborn sores. Resinol Ointment is widely recommended by doctors and nurses because it soothes and heals, and cannot harm the tender skin.

Resinol is sold in 1-cent and 2-cent tubes.

PETEY, LISTEN HARD!

When it's your good luck to butt into Buffalo, go to that store on Ellicott Square where the dark haired clerk slips out Camels with both hands—plus a tank of talk on the side!

The thing that tickled me most was his sureness that I was after Camels! As soon as I had my coin on the counter and before I could say a word, he flashed me a package of Camels. When I asked him how he knew I wanted Camels, he took a pull on his laugh stock and soaked me with this—"Can't tell you, old mayonnaise—I'm dressing!"

After he had waited on several other men who drew their Camels like I did, this salesman said—"For a fact, most men here smoke Camels. They hit the popular taste! Camels have the right body and the right mildness and the right flavor! They're ALL right!"

And, Pete—he added this without a stutter: The more I see of the world and the more I learn about cigarettes, the more respect I have for Camels and Camels quality! I don't believe a better cigarette could be made at any price! And Pete—oh, Pete—listen to this gun—"And it's an odds on bet I'm a good judge. I've tried 'em all—and my taste is the jury box!"

If that isn't a swell line of Camel talk, I'll sell my shoes! But, Peter, that salesman is right! It's my belief that no cigarette in the world can be favorably compared with Camels—they're so smooth and mellow and delightful!

I'm herewith dipping between the sheets, old book. So, you tell 'em the rest—you're so full of knowledge!

Sincerely,
Shorty
